Farm Bureau Wants Changes in Proposed Land Zoning Law

SCOPE IS TOO BROAD, SAY OFFICERS

Group Will Oppose Plan Unless Alterations Are Made in Setup

BOARD CITES POINTS
Larger Representation Of Rural Districts On Planning Body Asked

The Orange county farm bureau believes the proposed county land zoning ordinance will be an inconvenience to agriculture, but will not actively oppose it if certain conditions are recognized by the board of supervisors.

One of these provisions is that there should be a larger representation from rural areas on the county planning commission, which has fostered the zoning ordinance. A special committee reported to the farm bureau directors yesterday, pointing out that the zoning ordinance affects only unincorporated areas, and that therefore the planning commission should be composed largely of representatives of these rural areas.

"Scope Too Broad" Unless this principle is recognized in adoption of the zoning or land use ordinance, the farm bureau will be compelled to oppose such an ordinance, "as its scope is too broad to leave to a commission not familiar with agriculture."

The farm bureau board yesterday approved this recommendation of the special committee headed by D. R. Gardner of Orange. Another of the committee's recommendations was to the effect (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

Prince Mdivani, Ex-Mate of Barbara Hutton, Is Killed

PRINCE ALEXIS MDIVANI

BARCELONA, Spain, Aug. 2 (AP)—Prince Alexis Mdivani, 31, divorced husband of Barbara Hutton and one of the most colorful figures of international society, died today as dramatically as he lived.

The Georgian prince was killed instantly and his pretty young woman companion was injured critically in an automobile accident after he volunteered to drive the woman, who had missed her train, to her home in Perpignan, France.

The couple left the palatial home at Palamos of Mdivani's sister, Mrs. Jose Maria Sert, where the woman had been a house guest, shortly before last midnight.

Rising toward the French border, Mdivani's powerful roadster struck a culvert in a winding road at Albons, Gerona province, and plunged into a deep gully.

Two hours later, just as her last guests were leaving, Mrs. Sert was notified by telephone that a (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

$53,000 LAND UTILITIES HIT DEAL MADE BY RULING

80-Acre Bean And Beet Property At Bolsa Sold to L. A. Man

Reports of the sale of 80 acres of bean and beet land near Bolsa to F. A. Miles of Los Angeles were confirmed today by records in the recorder's office here. Revenue stamps affixed to the deed indicated that a cash price of $53,000 was paid for the land.

The property was known as the Clark homestead, and had belonged to the late Mrs. Sarah Clark. It had been in the family since 1886 and since 1906 was farmed by J. O. Pyle.

The farm is regarded as one of the best in Orange county. Mr. Miles about two years ago bought another bean acreage near Smelter. It is understood that the deal was made through W. F. Croddy, local realtor and former president of the Realty board. The records show that the transfer was made by the First National bank of Santa Ana trust department.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2 (AP)—A state supreme court decision which will cost public utilities thousands of dollars in retroactive taxes was hailed with glee today by California municipalities.

The court, reversing a stand it assumed six months ago, ruled that municipal governments may assess license taxes as of last January 1. The ruling was made in settling a suit brought by the Pacific Electric Railway company against the state motor vehicle department.

The railway company tendered the state $5942 as payment for 212 $3 automobile license fees, as well as weight taxes for the last six months of the year. The department of motor vehicles had refused to accept that sum, contending an additional $5306 was due for weight taxes for the first six months of the year.

TAX BILL DEFEATED
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2 (AP)—Republican demands for reduced government expenditures were met in the house tax debate today by a Democratic assertion that "we will balance the budget when the proper time comes, but not at the expense of those who are hungry and naked and destitute."

RILEY HURLS CHALLENGE OVER ROW

Controller Dares Miss Shontz To Deny Story About 'Trade'

'UTTERLY UNTRUE' Statement Discounted By Politician After 'Deal' Is Hinted

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 2 (AP)—A face-to-face challenge to Orfa Jean Shontz to deny an assertion that Senator McGuinness had offered to trade a "good services" of the senate civil service investigating committee for her support on the board of equalization was made today by Controller Ray L. Riley.

The dramatic meeting between the principals in the shake-up last Tuesday which saw Riley removed as chairman of the board came as the board re-convened today.

Senator Charges
It was prompted by an earlier statement in which McGuinness, a member of the committee, had taken Riley to task for the controller's assertion yesterday that Miss Shontz had said the senator had offered to trade political power with her for the defeat of Riley.

Meeting a group of newspapermen as he was about to enter the board offices, Riley was told of the McGuinness statement and reported that he had "witnesses" to prove the alleged remark of Miss Shontz.

Suddenly turning, the veteran controller started for the door to the board, saying over his shoulder: "Come on in—we'll find out about this."

Confronts Miss Shontz
He walked directly to the desk where Miss Shontz was sitting and exclaimed: "Will you deny in the presence of these reporters that you did not tell me than an offer had come to you that Senator McGuinness would provide the services of the committee if you would vote against me?"

Miss Shontz looked at Riley a moment and said: "I said all I wanted to in my statement."

She referred to an assertion (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

SIGNS OF EVIL FOR COPS Woman Wars On Markers!

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Aug. 2 (AP)—Because Mrs. Carrie Newton objected just as vigorously to parking in a jail cell as she did to not being able to park on a city street, Colorado Springs police had quite a problem on their hands. Mrs. Newton doesn't like "space reserved" signs and wants to park her car where she wishes and as long as she thinks necessary. Mrs. Newton is a woman of action. She was hauled into jail on a charge of malicious mischief, filed, police said, after she entered a bus company's office, seized a "no parking" sign that had been taken inside for safety and dragged it

Why Pigs Come Home 'Whooley' Starts Call, Then Gets Fancy

It's a finished, fancy, fine art, this knack of calling pigs. Mrs. Jessie La Liffe, an Iowa hog-calling champion, shows the proper facial expression, and while every farmer is a hog caller, she says, the porkers respond best to the tutored croonings of a real professor in the art. Bed-rock requirement of the art is to master the word "whooley"—with a drawn out "oo" and a quick "ee." Of course, the louder the better. But if you want to be more than an ordinary caller you must learn to use properly such signals as "peeg" and "big-eeeee"—with a quick "big" and long "eeeee" ending in a delicate falsetto. Once you have managed these terms you can reach the crest of artistic ability with a call such as this: "Hig-eeeee? hig-eeeee? whooley, peeg, whooley peeg, whooley, whooley, peeg, peeg, peeg."

NAB MURDER EL TORO IS SUSPECT 'ATTACKED'

Mutilation Death Figure Captured By Chicago Police in Garage

CHICAGO, Aug. 2 (AP)—Mandeville Zenge, 26-year-old Canton, Mo., carpenter, sought in the mutilation murder of Dr. Walter J. Bauer, was seized today in a taxicab garage on the west side.

Capt. Daniel Gilbert of the state attorney's office led a squad into the garage, following a taxicab in which Zenge was riding. Although the arrest was made at 3:30 a. m., it was not announced by Capt. Gilbert until nearly 10:30 a. m., after J. Andy Zenge of Canton, Mo., the suspect's father, admitted the man in custody was his son, after first denying it.

Police of four states had sought Zenge, since Dr. Bauer was found, dying, early Wednesday. At an (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

Anti-Aircraft Guns Used To 'Defend' Place In C.M.T.C. War Games

A force of 100 men with a battery of anti-aircraft guns today "defended" El Toro from an air attack by 13 planes, but the defenders will not know whether they or the air force were victorious until films of the battle are developed.

The anti-aircraft guns were equipped with camera attachments. If, after developing the films, an airplane is seen on the negatives, the gunners will know that their aim was correct and they brought down an enemy plane.

The land forces, made up of Citizens Military Training camp soldiers, camped in a eucalyptus grove last night. The attack occurred early this morning. The soldiers and airplanes left about 10:30 a. m. The planes were from the army air reserve corps now encamped at Long Beach.

NEW GERMAN CODE CITES PUNISHMENT

Treasonable Foreigners In Line For Severe Action Under Plan

REPORTER OUSTED! Correspondent Told To Leave Berlin; Others Are Given Warnings

BERLIN, Aug. 2 (AP)—Roland Freisler, state secretary for the ministry of justice, disclosed today that activity against the Nazi party and its organizations will be regarded as treason against the people and will be punished by death under the new criminal code.

"It must be clear that the Nazi movement is the pillar of the German nation and it must be protected by provisions against treasonable activities by the coming code," he said.

Points Outlined
The state secretary outlined 15 points, many of them dealing with technical questions, to be covered by the forthcoming sweeping penal code.

"Treasonable activities against the people are the most severe crimes," he said. "Traitors place themselves outside the community and a severe crime of this kind must be punished with outlawry, including the death penalty."

Severe punishment also would be provided for treasonable action by foreigners, he added, but such action could not be termed treason against the people because foreigners are bound only by an obligation. (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

TRIO AGREES TO RESUME PARLEY

Italy, Ethiopia Reject Formula; Session For Today Switched

MAY GO TO LEAGUE
Fifth Arbitrator Will Be Added To Group Of Conciliators

(Copyright, 1935, by Associated Press)
GENEVA, Aug. 2 (AP)—Premier Laval of France announced late today at a surprise private meeting of the League of Nations council that Italy, Great Britain and France had agreed to the resumption of arbitration of the dispute between Italy and Ethiopia.

The "big three" agreed that a fifth arbitrator should be added to the two representatives of each nation who, at present, constitute the Italo-Ethiopian conciliation commission.

Laval announced that, if the arbitration fails, the problem will be returned to the League of Nations.

Basis Is 1906 Treaty
According to league officials, he added that England, France and Italy would initiate the negotiations on the basis of their 1906 treaty.

The surprise session met immediately after a cocktail party for the council members at the home of J. A. C. Avenol, secretary-general of the league.

The secret session was held after word had been given out that both Italy and Ethiopia had rejected a Franco-British formula for settlement of their dispute.

Premier Mussolini turned down the formula on the ground that there should be no time limit for the projected political negotiations among France, Great Britain and Italy.

The British want them ended some time in September while the assembly and council of the league are in regular session. This would enable the British to demand a league examination if the political consultations collapse.

The Ethiopians were represented as opposed to the formula on the grounds that they would not be full fledged participants in the proposed conference to decide their state in the conflict with Italy.

Furthermore, they are hostile to conversations based on the Anglo-French-Italian treaty of 1906, deeming that the treaty dishonors Ethiopia since it does not bear Ethiopia's signature and was concluded without its approval.

Ethiopia's answer
It was reported in league circles that Teclé Hawariaté, the Ethiopian delegate, told Premier Laval of France and Anthony Eden of Great Britain: "We would rather (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

CALIFORNIA, WE'RE HERE

Writer Pokes Fun At State

"Perhaps the native and adopted sons of California pitched their voices a note or two too high when they warbled praises of the Golden State, says the editor of Collier's magazine, introducing in a current number a story by Walter Davenport. Collier's wandering writer, on some of the unwanted results of California publicity throughout the land.

"Anyway," continues the editor, "they got the idea across and now they're sorry. An army is marching into California—an army made of penniless unemployed, desperately seeking Utopia. 'Here we are,' say the invaders, 'what are you going to do about us?' And nobody knows the answer."

And then follows Davenport's story, consuming the best part of five pages, with pictures showing scenes of the march—squatters in Bakersfield's shanty town, squatters in Sacramento's shanty town, a shelterless camp in burning Imperial valley and the ever-present "blanket stiff."

In brooding San Francisco and her blond sister, Los Angeles, the authorities are fretting themselves sick about all this migration of the unemployed into California's wand-waving valleys," says Davenport. "And they grew no calmer when you suggested that perhaps it was a part of their reward for all the milk-and-honey ballyhoo they had been broadcasting for years. Come live in California for the good of your soul, they used to sing. In California, they once told us, they live life; elsewhere you merely spend it. And we remember what that booklet said—that booklet a lynical Mr. McWhinney sent us a few years ago inviting us to purchase a few of his well-nigh unbelievable lots in San Diego county: 'Even the tears one sheds in California are tears of gladness,' wrote Mr. McWhinney."

And then Mr. Davenport laughs and laughs and then adds: "Anyway here they were—at the end of the trail. Yonder swelled the ocean and at their backs the mountains mocked them. The power of illusion that had supported them through dust and flood had spent itself. Now they were ready for a Southern California miracle. Here was the land of daily milleniums, the tranquil home of the good country doctor whose heart bleeds for the old and the weary, the pulpit of Sinclair, who still promises to scotch poverty, the Happy Valley of ten thousand patented gospels and incorporated whinnies designed to warm you with telepathy and fatten you with mumbo-jumbo. And here we saw the straggled thousands awaiting in tents and even roofless beneath the patient heavens, for the touch of the magic hand."

WHITE HOUSE IGNORES PLANNER OF 'PRESIDENT INSANE' RUMOR

NO ACTION TO BE STARTED ON STORY

Roosevelt Has Taken No Recognition Of Plan Told By Witness

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2. (AP)—The White House indicated today that no action would be taken against E. P. Cramer, Plainfield, N. J., advertising man, who testified yesterday to the senate lobby committee that he had suggested a "whispering campaign" that President Roosevelt was insane.

The president has taken no recognition of the testimony.

Legal experts believe criminal action could be instituted under the libel law, but it was indicated apparently the matter will be dropped.

Cramer testified he was "ashamed" of what he had done and had no basis for any belief that the president was insane.

FAILURE TO STOP DRAWS SENTENCE

C. P. McDonnell of 1408 Orange avenue, Santa Ana, was taken before City Judge J. G. Mitchell yesterday after a complaint had been issued charging him with failure to stop after he had run over a dog. The incident occurred July 29, and the following day Mrs. Lois E. Mandy signed the complaint.

McDonnell was found guilty, and was given a 30-day suspended sentence.

Today that E. V. Sellers, NRA employee, had told her he knew a box that her father took from the hotel room of John W. Carpenter, Texas utilities official, contained cigars.

He Smoked Some
Miss Bonnie Patton quoted Sellers as telling her after seeing newspaper headlines about the box:

"That's absurd. I guess I know that was cigars in that box. I smoked some of them myself."

Previously, Sellers had denied smoking any of them.

The committee, investigating lobbying for and against the utility bill, also received testimony from Norris Shook, nephew of the congressman, that the box contained cigars. It has been testified Patton took the box from the hotel room before the house voted on the utility bill.

OLD SAN JUAN EULOGIZED

Magazine Tale Tells History

"Old San Juan, Last Stronghold of Spanish California," is the title of the leading article in the quarterly publication of the Historical Society of Southern California. It was written by Alfonso Yorba, graduate of Santa Ana Junior college, now a student at U. C. L. A.

Romance and traditions, century-old bits of tragedy, tales of banditry, pictures of the sleepy village of many decades ago, are entwined with accurate information concerning the lineage of old Spanish families.

Form Society
Young Yorba is credited with having revived the spirit of fandango days at San Juan Capistrano. He and other young men, descendants of the dons and donas of the '30s, '40s and '50s, have recently organized a society for the perpetuation of historic names and customs, to hold fast to the colorful things of yesteryear at old San Juan Capistrano.

A few months ago Yorba presented a paper to the Historical Society of Orange county on the old adobes of the mission village. With it went pictures of all the adobes. Many of these pictures have been used to illustrate the article that appears in the quarterly of the Historical Society of Southern California. The frontispiece is entitled "La Casa Tizada, picturesque south wing of the Hacienda Aguilar." Other pages show the Tomas Burriel, the Jose Antonio Yorna, the Oyharzabal, the Avila, and the Dona Polonia adobes.

"Sleeps Untouched"
"The last of the old Spanish pueblo towns sleeps on into 1935 almost untouched by the modern world," says Yorba in his opening paragraph. "Here in sleepy San Juan the Spanish Californian vaqueros still stride about town with jingling spurs, silken bandanas and black, flat-topped Spanish hats. From behind the thick, white and through the open doorway comes the soft strumming of the guitar as old melodies, now lost to most of California, are revived for the fandangoes of San Juan Capistrano."

be murdered than commit suicide." Mussolini's reply to the peace formula suggestion was communitarianist had found an overturned car and that a body had been taken to an undertaking establishment at Albion.

The woman with him was identified as Baroness Maud von Thyssen.

Although Mdivani frequently drove from Paris where he made his headquarters, to visit his sister, he was little known in Spain except among a few intimate friends with whom he occasionally played polo.

Visits Secret
The prince's visits, especially during his estrangement from Barbara Hutton, American heiress to the Woolworth millions, now married to Count Court Haugwitz-Reventlow, were made in greatest secrecy. His friends cooperated to enable him to cloak his movements successfully.

The prominence of Mdivani's brother-in-law in Spanish art and social circles, however, caused the Spanish press to devote much space to the prince's series of romantic affairs.

Prince Alexis Mdivani, son of the late General Zachary Mdivani, former aide-de-camp to Czar Nicholas of Russia, was descended from the Mdivani family, which acquired the title of prince in 1752 for military achievements in Georgia, which became a Russian province in 1801.

Two Brothers
He was a brother of Prince David Mdivani, former husband of Mae Murray, motion picture actress, and of Prince Serge Mdivani, former husband of another film actress, Pola Negri, and of Mary McCormick, opera singer.

Besides his sister, the wife of Jose Maria Sert, Spanish mural painter, he had another sister, the wife of Charles Huberich, Paris lawyer.

Alexis Mdivani was married first to Louise Astor Van Allen, a descendant of John Jacob Astor, at Newport Villa, May 15, 1931. They were divorced a few months later.

His second marriage was to Barbara Hutton at a civil ceremony in Paris, June 30, 1933. They were divorced at Reno, Nev., May 13, 1935.

When Miss Hutton was married to Mdivani she retained full control of her fortune of approximately $42,000,000 but it was reported that she gave as a wedding present to her bridegroom a set of pearl shirt studs, a string of polo ponies, $1,000,000 and a trust fund that paid him $50,000 a year.

made several minutes previously in which she endorsed the senator's explanation.

"You won't deny that occurrence then?" insisted Riley.

"Mr. Riley, I said all I wanted to say in that statement," she repeated.

"Rather difficult situation, isn't it?" replied Riley.

Doesn't Reply
Miss Shontz did not reply. A reporter asked her if she would affirm the Riley statement.

"I neither affirm or deny it," she replied.

Riley looked at her a moment and said sharply: "I didn't think you were that kind of a person."

Turning away he walked toward his desk.

The controller said later that he would be glad to appear before members of the civil service committee expected to meet here on Monday.

"I would not only be glad to appear, I'd like to be invited," said the controller.

Riley yesterday said Miss Shontz had told him McGuinness had made the offer while the investigating committee was in Los Angeles recently.

"Never Talked to Him"
"I never talked to Senator McGuinness in my life except at formal hearings of the committee in the presence of the entire membership," said Miss Shontz.

"However, I believe Senator McGuinness' statement covers the situation quite fully and I have no other comment to make."

Riley's declaration was made yesterday on his return to the city from a vacation in Mexico. While he was absent he was displaced as chairman of the state board of equalization by Miss Shontz voting with Fred E. Stewart and Richard E. Collins, to declare the chairmanship vacant and electing Collins.

Previously Miss Shontz had been aligned with Riley and John Corbett, and Riley controlled the board's affairs.

'Die By Sword'
"Mr. Riley has been in politics long enough to know that those who live by the sword should expect to die by the sword," said McGuinness in a prepared statement.

"And he certainly should have learned by this time to take a political spanking with good grace, instead of trying to shift the blame to a committee that has been attempting to clean up unhealthy conditions which came into being during his own tenure as chairman of the board."

"Perhaps the kindest explanation of Mr. Riley's statement is that he is suffering from a somewhat common political ailment known as delusions of grandeur. At any rate he is talking through his hat and I imagine he will be given a spanking in the near future or repudiate his charges before the senate committee which he has accused."

Veterans Excluded
His pronouncement was issued as Nazi Germany observed the first anniversary of the death of Marshal Paul von Hindenburg.

Flags flew at half mast while memorial services dedicated to the memory of Germany's world war hero and former president were held.

The day also marked the end of the first year of absolute rule by Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler. While Von Hindenburg lived, Hitler was only chancellor, but immediately thereafter he assumed sole power.

Press Cautions
The Stahlhelm (Steel Helmet) war veterans' organization, subjected with Jews and "political Catholics" to the Nazi campaign against "state enemies," were omitted from those permitted to take part in the ceremonies at the Tannenberg memorial where Von Hindenburg was laid to rest a year ago.

While the German press lamented the marshal's passing at a critical period, it was careful to praise Hitler at the same time for taking hold of the reins of state without disturbances which the newspapers said might well have come.

NAZI WARN REPORTERS ABOUT BERLIN STORIES
BERLIN, Aug. 2. (AP)—The propaganda ministry's heavy hand fell today upon Dr. Ernest Klein, the Berlin correspondent of the Swiss protestant newspaper, Basler Nachrichten.

He was ordered to get out of Germany within five days, and the order was regarded as the first action in repressive measures threatened against foreign correspondents.

Writers Cited
Officials of the propaganda ministry have been busy for the last few days calling in foreign correspondents and telling them their reporting does not please the Nazi regime.

During previous months only younger correspondents who have not been in Germany long or who do not represent large and influential newspapers or nations were called on the carpet.

But during recent days the ministry has called in men who have been in Germany more than a dozen years, among them two former presidents of the Foreign Press association.

Reports Displeasing
In each case, the man summoned was told that his reports on the German situation were displeasing and that this was "merely a preliminary warning."

A number of foreign correspondents have been in close touch with their respective diplomatic missions and have been assured by their ambassador or ministers that they will stand solidly behind them.

that the farm bureau does not advocate or support such an ordinance, but is seeking to protect the interests of agriculture in such an ordinance, and that where these interests are protected, the farm bureau will not oppose such a measure.

Urges Board's Control
The board also approved a recommendation to the effect that control of the ordinance and land use or zoning should remain entirely with the board of supervisors. Action of the board should not necessarily require a prior report or recommendation of the planning commission, the recommendation said.

It was urged that in creation of special districts or zones, extra precautions should be taken to insure notice of the intended action reaching all property owners, and that adequate hearings be held.

Roland D. Flaherty, farm bureau secretary, pointed out today that the value of the ordinance, defining uses for land, is largely aesthetic. It is of no direct benefit to agriculture, he said, and imposes some inconveniences such as requiring building permits, inspections and similar things.

However, he indicated that the farm bureau will not actively oppose the ordinance if the interests of agriculture as recommended are protected. A number of the features most objected to by the farm bureau have been eliminated, he said.

Commission Members
The planning commission is composed of Dr. W. L. Bigham, Anaheim, chairman; J. W. Marshall, Santa Ana, secretary; L. W. Briggs, Balboa; James M. Macklin, Huntington Beach; Hugh T. Thomson, Orange, and Oliver Hall, Santa Ana.

Working with Mr. Gardner on the special farm bureau committee were A. H. Heinemann, Olive; E. F. Zimmer, West Anaheim; R. F. Hazard, Midway City; John Osterman, Tustin, and J. O. Pyle, Smelter.

The committee pointed out that its position regarding the planning commission personnel was not based on any personal opposition to any member, but entirely on the desire to have greater rural representation on the body.

JURY RAPPED FOR FREEING BEER BARON

MALONE, N. Y., Aug. 2. (AP)—Freed by a county jury which received a bitter tongue lashing from the court for its verdict, Arthur (Dutch) Schultz, Flegenheimer alleged he was determined today to discharge his $92,000 income tax obligation to the government.

Shortly after a federal jury decided last night that the former Bronx beer runner was innocent of evading payment of $92,000 income taxes, Schultz said through an attorney:

"We intend to pay."

Judge F. H. Bryant spoke bitterly to the jury. His voice was low and trembling with rage as he said:

"A verdict such as you have just rendered shakes the confidence of law-abiding people. You will go home with the satisfaction you have rendered a blow against law enforcement."

TAKE ACTION ON PLAN FOR NEW STREET NAMES AT CAPISTRANO

APPROVAL OF MOVE IS SOUGHT

Spanish-American Group Will Ask Supervisors To Make Change

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO.—Officials of the Spanish-American club of San Juan Capistrano announced today that petitions asking changes in street names in the community would be circulated starting next Tuesday.

Action was taken at the last meeting of the club in which the entire membership or the organization voted in favor of the plan. Due to the fact that land litigation necessitated an act of Congress setting up an official plat of the town, including "the make-shift and meaningless names now in force," some difficulty may be encountered in determining the ultimate authority for appeal in case the county supervisors deem this action out of their jurisdiction, club officials said.

Seek Approval
Signed approval of all residents of the community will be sought during the campaign, it was reported by Alfonso Yorba, secretary of the club.

Proposed changes in street names follow:

"Plaza street" instead of Broadway, which marks the North end of the old mission plaza.

"El Camino Real" instead of Oriental street, which follows the course of the ancient Camino Real on the east instead of the west side of the mission, as is commonly supposed.

"Juan Abila street" instead of the present Highway 101. The old Juan Abila adobe, nearly a block long, occupied most of this street in pueblo times.

"Yorba street" instead of Cross street. The old Ramon Yorba adobe was the only house built facing on this thoroughfare.

To Honor Forsters
"Forster street" for the unimproved strip north of the old Juan Forster mansion, "Las Rosas."

"Calle del Obispo," street of the Bishop, instead of Garden street or McKinley avenue. The street was thus named in pueblo times following the spectacular reception given a visiting bishop.

"Rios street" instead of Occidental street. The Rios family have occupied their adobe home on that street for the past 140 years, according to club officials.

"Mission street" instead of San Fernando street. This avenue runs north of the old mission and bounds the northern limits of the mission proper, the former vineyard and mission fields.

Three or four other streets of lesser importance include changes sought by descendants of the old pioneer families in their campaign to preserve the old traditions and landmarks of the county.

Coast Lines

By McDONALD WHITE

Suppose Governor Frank F. Merriam's right hand is always in good shaking trim, but it certainly took a beating Tuesday night when he spent fully 20 minutes hailing his way through the crowded lobby of Hotel Laguna. "How are you, Governor?" He released one hand and grappled with another. "Hello, Mr. Hollingsworth. . . Hello, Senator N. T. Edwards. Hello, Jim. How am I? I'm happy. Why shouldn't I be? Haven't anything to crab about." All the way into the dining room the governor wore that big smile on his big-jawed, happy countenance, and that made a lot of folks forget to cater (oh-oh!) to politics.

Not far from the governor Mayor Frank Champion bravely cogitated the wisdom of doing justice to the piece de resistance, fried chicken. The jovial mayor has been confined to his bed with well, let's just say he ate too much—these last many days, and the town didn't sound quite the same without his long-range laugh.

Police Chief Abe Johnson just up and went into a fancy jig for no reason at all when he walked Captain Portus, who tends the Chamber of Commerce. One thing led to another until Capt. Portus was showing the chief how the Kaiser marched the goose step in reverse. It all seemed rather silly until a stranger sauntered in to inquire of the chief if he had any literature that would teach him how to drive a car. After that everybody sort of drifted off and went about their own business. Maybe it's the sea air.

Doc Mallow and Fred Aufdenkamp sitting on adjoining stools in the drug store, talking about bowling, as usual. Page Kittle, Judge Cravath and the rest of the bowling greeners.

Prize for the month's biggest and broadest smile goes to Lynn Aufdenkamp standing in the foyer of the new Lynn theater. The Aufdenkamps, you know, built the first movie that Laguna ever had, and that was many, many years ago. Open-air and showed those memorable old two-gun thrillers, "The Perils of Pauline," et al. If the memory doesn't fail it was over on Forest avenue near where Roy Peacock used to have his original garage. Quite a long jump from that shaky old movie to the artistic new Lynn theater we have today.

Doc Hoffman, the good-natured dentist, fills your tooth and gloatingly tells about the grilled steaks a-la outdoors that he is going to have for dinner. Says roasted corn is good, too. Now is that fair, I ask you?

Down in San Clemente O. R. Robertson tells an incident of tragedy to note. Last Saturday morning the ambulance, passing the Chevrolet garage, hailed A. J. Jimenez to follow with a tow car. When he arrived at the scene of the accident at the "Y" in Serra he found his brother, Albert Jimenez of San Juan Capistrano, dying.

F. A. Amundson, member of the architectural board of San Clemente, dispensing a coca cola behind the counter of his drug store. Police Chief Tom Murphine sitting behind his bullet-proof windshield that has a neat little peephole to shoot through. Glass more than an inch thick. Lead rain pattering on the window pane.

And fine weather all along the coast.

The shrines on the islet of Enoshima, Japan, are sacred to the goddess Benten.

VOTE ON BONDS AT PLACENTIA

PLACENTIA.—Residents of the Placentia school district will go to the polls September 4 to vote on a $160,000 bond issue for rehabilitation of buildings damaged in the March, 1933, earthquake and for construction of several new structures. It was decided at a meeting of the board of education in the Bradford school yesterday.

After weeks of investigation by board members and the school architect, it was found necessary to spend $400,000 on the district's schools. Board members pointed out yesterday that they were not pushing the bond election, but were putting the issue up to voters of the district for their approval.

Two separate issues will be presented at the election. One will be for $110,000 for elementary schools and the other $50,000 for Valencia high school.

Ask Federal Aid
Board members are asking $180,000 in federal aid for the proposed project, which leaves $220,000 to be raised in the district. Of this amount, $60,000 in insurance money from the burned Bradford school is on hand.

Included in plans for rehabilitation of the elementary schools are reconstruction of the Richfield school at a cost of $26,000 and reconstruction work at the La Jolla school, $7,500. The new building plan includes an expenditure of $210,000 at the Bradford school for 15 classrooms, an auditorium, library and principal's office. The auditorium, to be used by both high and elementary students, will cost approximately $100,000.

An addition is planned for the La Jolla school costing $38,000, with all Mexican pupils from that district then able to attend school there instead of moving to the Baker street school. A new unit costing $24,000 would be built to replace the Baker structure, located with $4,500 allowed for purchase of land.

High School Program
The high school program, totaling $90,000, calls for construction of the second main unit of the plant at a cost of about $65,000 and a $25,000 gymnasium.

Board members also approved budgets for both high and elementary schools for the coming year. The high school budget totaled $90,000, in which is allowance for completion of three buildings now under construction. The elementary budget was set at $168,802, which includes $60,000 in insurance money now held by the district.

A public hearing will be held on the budgets next Monday at 4 p. m. in the Bradford school, it was announced.

Building Figure In Raise At Newport Beach

NEWPORT BEACH.—A substantial increase in building figures last month over the month of June was announced today by City Building Inspector E. M. Nelson. Permits totalling $35,975 were issued during July, as against $28,475 for June. Expenditures totalling $315,515 were announced for the first seven months of 1935, while only $164,527 was spent during the same period a year ago.

H. B. BUILDING PERMITS DROP

HUNTINGTON BEACH.—Building permits issued for the month of July were light and only totaled $13,515, according to figures released today by City Engineer Harry A. Overmyer. A total of $78,285 was spent a year ago, with $50,000 of the total for construction of the O. C. Field gasoline plant.

Last month's permits were issued to Clarence A. Olive for building a new $4500 five-room home on Main street, and the Four Square Gospel church for a new $3000 church edifice on Lake street. Re-building of two derelicts and miscellaneous alterations and repairs accounted for the rest.

WHAT, NO CHIMPANZEES? Pet Show Has Many Entries

FULLERTON.—"My dog kin lick your dog."

"No he can't, and besides, mine made Mary's cat scratch her on the arm."

This and many other such conversations were overheard at the pet show held at Commonwealth park Fullerton yesterday. A record of four separate and distinct dog fights at the same time was set at the competition.

Pet parrots, chickens, dogs, cats, chipmunks, rabbits, turtles and almost everything else that walks or crawls was entered in the show. Greatest excitement of the day occurred when some boy's bulldog made a lucky snatch at a batman rooster and proudly walked away with the screaming bird in his mouth. After a hasty rescue, the bird was re-entered in the competition, slightly the worse for wear.

Neil Cariker rode off with the sweepstakes prize for having the largest pet with his pony. His award was a bale of hay. Other winners were, smallest pet, Lloyd Gould's turtle; fattest pet, Rosella and Bellma Olsen's English sheep dog; thinnest pet, William Knott's chipmunk; best cat, entered by Fatty Ramsey; most unusual pet, a red rooster which would do tricks, owned by Donald Pryor; best trick animal, Buster Parks' Scotty; strangest cat, one which had a figure "3" in its markings, entered by Frederick Bandler.

Calico cat, entered by Nancy McManis; most ferocious dog, owned by Norman Stewart; largest number of entries, mother cat and eight kittens, Ralph Davis, with second prize to Barbara Russell, best dog in show, spaniel, entered by Patty Twombly and police dog entered by Beth Barton; smallest cats, entered by Patricia and Margaret Frances; funniest dog, Billie Burdorf; Mary Rogers and Phyllis Shaw, smallest dogs; Claire Wood and Helen Frances Pyeat, canaries; Preston Pyeat, parrot and Alfred Dominguez, goat.

Arthur Johnson, playground director, was in charge of the show. Miss Katherine Smith, Perry Maynard and Carl Stretter were judges for the contest.

All youngsters having entries were given free swim tickets in the Fullerton plunge after the show.

Brick Dust

By BRICK GAINES

When folks in Yorba Linda roll up their sleeves and start in to do something, it's going to be done, no matter how long it takes.

Quite some time ago they decided they'd rather have youngsters of their community have a playground right at home, than to use somebody's beach or dance hall, which might keep them out all hours.

Some unused school lots looked inviting to investigators. They decided that if the lots could be used and the school board could be "sold" on the idea of using $300 of district funds for improvement, that maybe young Yorba Lindans would remain closer to home.

They called a straw vote on the action, and a large majority favored the idea of using school money for the purpose, but the board said "No."

So now they're hunting for some other method of making their plan work. Rumors that Phil Ton and Clyde Simmons and their hard-worked partners might stage another minstrel show for the purpose are unconfirmed.

Midway City may still have a new sewer.

After one false start on the project, workers are at large again, having petitions signed and their district and hoping to have a bond election called for the work.

And as if that isn't enough, they're also working on a new five-acre city park on Huntington Beach boulevard.

If Midway Citizens can develop such huge plans while sweltering in the summer heat, when winter comes and they really get busy I'm looking for an attempt to annex Santa Ana to their growing community.

ORANGE GUILD HAS SOCIAL

Johnny Tuffree, Placentia's champion traveler, has become the most popular man in Orange county, and all because he takes pictures.

He goes to Mexico, or South America, or some other out-of-the-way place and brings back scenes of natives grinding this or eating that or catching something else. Then he just sits back for a few days, until someone calls him up and asks him to show his pictures.

After a trip he is busy almost every night with a society or league or association. If he insists on making his trips, he may have to stop growing oranges and take up motion picture production on a large scale.

Mexican and Filipino orange pickers, paid more per box for their work in the county this year, have spurred efforts of organizers to make trouble. A grower remarked recently that packers are apparently working under the supposition that "All work and no pay makes Jack a dull boy."

Things just learned: That Sulphur Slide really is sulphur. Some one at dedication of the new road around the slide in Santa Ana canyon recently pointed out this fact and said that a brave soul could taste the sulphur. Good place for a picnic.

BEACH COUNCIL SEAT FILLED

SEAL BEACH.—Louis J. White was unanimously selected as the new Seal Beach councilman at a meeting last night to replace the vacancy created by recent resignation of Ernest R. Muse. Mr. White operates the bathhouse and cottages at Anaheim Landing bay. He has lived in Seal Beach for the past 17 years and at one time was fire chief of San Pedro. He will hold the office until the term expires next April.

A sum of $100 was appropriated as a contribution to the League of Municipalities for expenses in defending the standard of valuation of public utilities as gauged by the league.

Mayor Elmer J. Hughes announced the following re-appointments for council committees: finance and fire, E. G. Walder and Dr. Ernest R. Green; water, Tim Hussey and Louis J. White; sewer and building, Louis J. White.

Business licenses during the month of July netted the city treasury $2000, and building permits totalled $1750, it was reported.

LEGION HEADS INSTALLED

OLD FAMILY WILL RE-UNITE! Commemorate Safe Landing

MEET the WIFE

Mrs. Richard Arlen

"Joby" and "Dick" were extras together, 12 years ago, when they first came to Hollywood. . . . But Richard Arlen didn't meet his present wife, Jobyana Ralston, until their mutual friend Charles Farrell introduced them at a dance. . . . Jobyana was "going with" Charlie, but soon she was Arlen's fiancée. . . . and so they were married.

Mrs. Arlen's chief interest is two-and-a-half year old Richard, Jr. . . . Dick plays golf almost every day and Jobyana plays once a week. . . . whenever a tournament comes along, they both enter. . . . Dick never has won a prize, but his wife usually gets one—she plays badminton, too, and her hobby is collecting early American furniture—she answers her husband's fan mail and otherwise acts as his secretary.

Ethiopia became independent towards the eleventh century, having been an Egyptian province before that.

POMONA, Aug. 2. (AP)—Dr. James A. Blaisdell, president of Claremont college, prepared to leave today for York, Me., for a reunion of members of the Blaisdell family commemorating the safe landing after shipwreck of their progenitor 300 years ago.

Members of the family will gather at the parish house in York August 15 and proceed the following day to Pemaquid Point, Maine. It was at this point that the ancestor of the family, Ralph Blaisdell, landed after shipwreck of the Angel Gabriel during the great storm that was an event in New England history.

Whittier wrote of the storm in the poem, "Swan Song of Parnassus." A considerable number of prominent American families date their arrival in New England by the day of the "great storm," 300 years ago. Two small ships, the James and the Angel Gabriel, had left Bristol, England, the previous June.

The Angel Gabriel was wrecked with loss of life and freight on Pemaquid Point, and the James survived the gale, coming safely ashore at the Isle of Shoals. James brought the ancestor of the Mather family, which became conspicuous in the life of New England and Harvard college.

It will be the first reunion in the history of the Blaisdell family, whose members reside in New England, the middle states, Pacific coast, Hawaiian islands and South America.

LAGUNA CIVIC HEADS MEET

LAGUNA BEACH.—Members of the city council held a special meeting last night to discuss ways and means of improving trash and garbage collection in the city, which has been a source of many complaints recently due to the seasonal increase in population.

K. H. Sutherland, county health officer, was present at the session. Concerned with the sanitary problems involved, Dr. Sutherland suggested that people should be informed definitely when trash and garbage will be collected, also what constitutes garbage under the city ordinance, which positively forbids stuffing containers with paper.

Mayor Champion recommended that a memorandum be made of where inadequate containers existed and that owners be requested to replace them.

Several petitions were read by the city clerk and acted upon by the council. Another special meeting was called for next Monday at 5 p. m.

SEVERAL BITTEN BY ANIMALS AT NEWPORT BEACH

NEWPORT BEACH.—All dogs and cats in the Newport Harbor area are to be kept under careful watch for the next 30 days to guard against any possible spread of disease, according to officials of the police department. Several people have been bitten recently by dogs and cats thought to have been suffering from rabies. Whalen Kelsey of Lido Island, Phillip Whitman, 3308 Ocean front, Newport, and several others were reported attacked and bitten yesterday.

FLY ART TOLD ROTARY CLUB

ORANGE.—Dr. C. S. Parker presided at the Rotary club meeting Thursday in the absence of Dr. R. B. McAulay, who is on a vacation. George Gilmore, as program chairman, introduced R. G. Miller of Huntington Beach, who talked on manufacture of trout flies and fly fishing. He said there are 700 varieties of artificial flies, and many materials from all over the world are used in making them.

Feathers from the mandarin wood duck, pheasant, French gray cock, black game and Australian cocks, are used. Tinsel from India, cork sheets from Germany, moose hair, brown bear hair and polar bear and Chinese goat hair are other strange materials used to fashion these tiny lures, he said.

C. H. Robinson invited all Rotarians and their wives to a showing of the official moving pictures of the Mexico City convention at the Masonic hall Friday night at 8 o'clock, preceding a meeting of Royal Arch Masons.

Mary Stoddard Girls Who Plan to Reform Men After Marriage Find Disappointment Awaiting Them

By MARY STODDARD
What more of us humans need is a consistent plan for living.

Most of the deep, dark problems presented by people for solution could be verbally shot full of holes, so full of inconsistencies are they.

Consider the letter we choose first today. It is from a girl. She's in love. The man is decent and honorable and will do anything she wishes, so she says. In the next breath she states her problem, which is to the effect that, "He drinks because he likes to or wants to and that's that."

And there is one important thing this girl should consider if she decides to marry him. If he won't or can't quit now, she can just make up her mind to having an irresponsible husband on her hands as long as they are together.

And another thing—this man's reformation must come from within. Until he makes up his mind that it is for his good more than hers or anyone else's to stop "hibbing too freely" he will slide along and depend upon her to "help him."

She thinks she'll end it all if she has to give him up. Be that as it may she'll probably feel much more like doing that if she marries under the present circumstances.

Dear Miss Stoddard: About five years ago I met a man some 15 years my senior. His habits and ways of living are like mine. I met him while on a summer vacation, and see him every summer. He writes to me during the winters. He is honest, kind, and above all else, he is decent. He has been married and has told me all about himself. It's not just an infatuation, but real love, for he caters to my every wish.

Although this man is good-natured and well-liked in his community, he has one habit which distresses and hurts me. He likes to drink, and while he isn't a drunkard, he does take a little too much. I don't censure him, but tell him I would like to help him break that habit. He always to my helping him, and agrees to a regimen and tells me he is ashamed and sorry. His reason for drinking is that he claims he has no home. When evening comes, the boys call on him, and before he knows it, he has taken too much. Last week, he was about to give in to the boys, when he came away.

I told him that whenever he feels he is overindulging, to come to me, and I will walk or talk with him. He really tries. But we can't marry for many reasons. He hasn't enough money, and my mother would never consent. I know my own mind, for I am 30 years old, and love him with all my heart. Sometimes I think it over to myself, and say I'll give him up, but I can't.

I would be grateful if you will suggest a way to stop his drinking to excess. This summer he has been intoxicated three times, but I know he tries. Should I give him up? It would drive him all the way down, as he claims he needs me. I know this is true because he has control over his habit when he is with me.

I know we have no right to take our own lives, but if I have to give him up, I believe I will end it all. There won't be much to live for. Please tell me what you think about my problem, and I will try to see your side of the subject as well as my own.

BEWILDERED.

Two Chic Frocks From Same Marian Martin Pattern

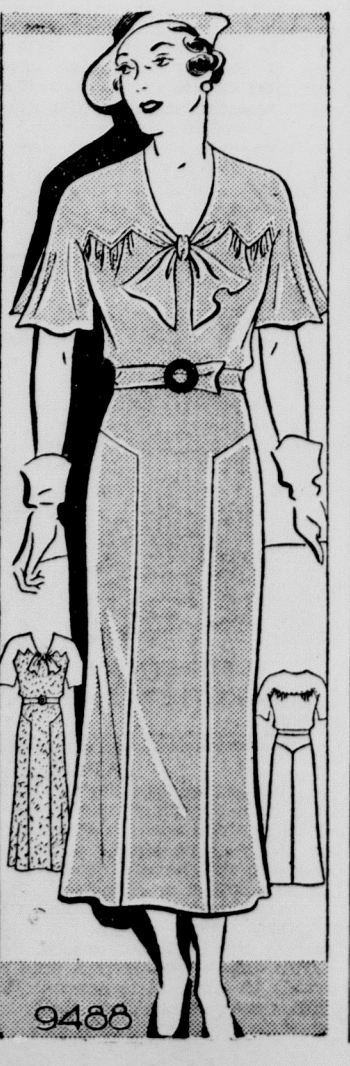

PATTERN 9488

It's wise economy for the heavier woman who has a bit of difficulty finding styles with good lines, to choose this one pattern for two frocks! It lends itself so well to variety, for one might be made of monotone triple sheer for dressy occasions and another of print with contrasting yoke and sleeve (small skirt) for a less important dress. It's a delight to find a frock that can be made so quickly. All sleeve trouble is eliminated in a delect cut of yoke, tie and sleeve all in one! Softly the bodice gathers into the decorative yoke and a trim panelled skirt slips down the hips. Silk crepe or sheer or voile are excellent. Complete, diagrammed Marian Martin sew chart included.

Pattern 9488 may be ordered only in sizes 16, 18, 20, 24, 26, 28, 40, 42 and 44. Size 36 requires four yards 39-inch fabric. Send 15 cents in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each Marian Martin pattern. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, the style number and size of each pattern.

The Marian Martin summer pattern book will lead your way to warm weather chic! From its 40 pages view the parade of clothes for every occasion for every member of the family. Designs all beautifully illustrated, patterns all easy to make. Styles for the small girl, the dashing deb, the blushing bride and the mature matron plus some useful hints and some delightful reading. Send for your copy now! Price of book 15 cents. Book and pattern together, 25 cents.

OLYMPIC COMMITTEE OPPOSES PLAN TO HALT U. S. TEAM

Column Left!

By FRANK ROGERS

Orange county boxing enthusiasts today were predicting a steady revival of boxing interest in these parts.

Since Sam Sampson and Ben (Doc) Steffler commenced staging amateur shows at the arena on 401 highway interest has not been poor, by any means, but compared to wrestling the boxing crowds have been slim.

But there is new hope for the fights today.

Last night's show, while missed by a good many who are now sorry, was the athletic tops so far as amateur fights are concerned. Lupe Cardoza, who beat Johnny Aguirre in the top spot, is a coming national champ. While he is a bantamweight and a few pounds heavier than Aguirre, he nevertheless far outclassed his rival who is the National Amateur Athletic Association champion.

Art Arroya, a Westminster lad, is another comer. He has a smooth speed. He looked very classy even in losing to Huntington Park's Al Garcia.

Every bout last night, from the bottom up, was filled with action that should result in a box office increase.

We had just reached the point where we planned to take the stump and ask Matchmaker Steffler why he didn't switch to professionals when he comes up with a battle like this.

CELLULOID GLORY DAYS ARE OVER

We think the days when a guy with a name in sports can put his mug before a camera and walk off with a stake are over. It used to be that anyone with a title could make a second fortune in the movies.

Maxie Baer was different. He could act at least a little.

Frank Shields is the last to try it today. He is back in New York seeking to regain his standing as one of the nation's leading racquetballers.

Shields says his greatest aim is to get on the Davis cup team. And maybe they could use him.

"I'm keen for tournaments this year—much keener than last year, after we were beaten in the Davis cup challenge round," he says.

"I'm really serious about it and expect to play well enough at least to move up a notch in the national ranking."

SHORT SHOTS AT SPORTS ITEMS

Fullerton's Arky Vaughan is a hero in Pittsburgh today. He poled out a home run with the paths crowded against Chicago yesterday. Bill McKechnie, who hangs onto the Braves through thick and thin, will probably wind up as president. We want Vic Christy to appear on a mat card here and our friend, Tige Clinton, may oblige.

BILL COLE LEAVES FOR LUBBOCK

ARCHERS FINISHED

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2. (P)—With new champions already crowned, bow and arrow experts of the National Archery association today brought their 55th annual target tournament to a close.

Gilman Keasey of Corvallis, Ore., copped the 1935 title with a total point score of 2870 for the tournament, which included a new record of 1486 points for the double York shoot.

Mrs. Ruth Hedger of Modesto, Calif., sharpshooter, captured the women's title with a total score of 1902 points.

Germany's Pledges O. K., Say Officials Heading American Entry

NEW YORK, Aug. 2. (P)—The American Olympic committee lined up today to combat any attempts to oppose American participation in the 1936 Olympic games in Berlin.

Through Avery Brundage, its president, the committee replied to Jeremiah T. Mahoney, president of the Amateur Athletic Union, who reiterated his opposition to the United States sending athletes to Berlin if charges of racial discrimination are proved.

Referring to the revival of opposition which followed the latest anti-Jewish and anti-Catholic activities in Germany, Brundage said:

"Pledges satisfactory to the international and American Olympic committees have been made by Germany respecting the treatment of its own athletes as well as those of visiting countries."

"If it develops those promises have been broken, further consideration can be given to the subject of the American Olympic committee. So far we have had no reports whatsoever official or otherwise, that Germany has failed to give Jewish athletes a fair opportunity to qualify for Olympic teams."

"It is my understanding, in fact, that in the case of Helene Mayer, champion woman fencer, German sports leaders have sought earnestly to have her return from the United States to represent Germany in the Olympics."

Brundage admitted protests have been received from Jewish organizations charging German discrimination and urging the American Olympic authorities to act. He said there is no intention of a showdown in the immediate future on the racial or religious issues.

"Whether or not it all blows over there is plenty of time," he said, "for the A. A. U. to consider its course of action by the time the annual convention is held in New York this winter. There are no scheduled meetings for the Olympic committee and will be none until I issue a call."

PROS BATTLING FOR $4600

INVERNESS GOLF CLUB, Toledo, O., Aug. 2. (P)—A mad scramble for the $4600 pot of gold offered in the two-man team best ball, round robin, Inverness invitational golf tournament was on tap today as 16 of the nation's top-notch professionals offered the second round of the match play.

Sam Parks, national open champion, paired with Ky Laffoon yesterday with a gain of 2-up victory over Walter Hagen and Al Watrous. Ohio's great team, Al Watrous of Akron and Billy Burke of Cleveland, won by the same margin over Vic Ghezzi and Denny Shute.

BLIND HOLE GOLF HONORS ANNEXED BY FIVE AT CLUB

Mrs. B. W. McClure, 49-5-41; Mrs. O. G. P. P. 49-5-41; Mrs. Jack Colburn, 50-9-41; and Mrs. Hugh Shields, 50-9-41, were the winners over holes 4, 5, 7, 10, 11, 12, 14, 16 and 18.

Cardoza Outclasses Flyweight Champion

BANTAM KING CHALKS UP VICTORY

Fast Card Featured By Two Knockouts; Arroya Loses To Visitor

By FRANK ROGERS

If Lupe Cardoza were a few pounds lighter he might well lay claim to two titles instead of one today. Already Southern California bantamweight champion, Cardoza last night left jabbed his way to a lopsided decision over National Amateur Athletic Union Flyweight Champion Johnny Aguirre of Huntington Park at the Orange County Athletic club.

No titles were at stake and Cardoza, who showed he is headed for the top in his division, was a few pounds heavier than the national champ. From the opening gong Cardoza's left, clicking like machine-gun fire, kept Champion Aguirre on the losing trail.

Cardoza floored the Huntington Park boy, who was remarkably slow for a flyweight, once in the second round for an eight-count and again in the fading seconds of the last frame.

Piling up a mountainous lead with that rapid-fire left and winning the first two rounds handily, Cardoza put his fighting gear in freewheeling and coasted for the third and lost this round when Aguirre showed his only flash of aggressiveness.

Fresh as he was at the start, the Pomona puncher polished off a smooth performance by outspeeding Aguirre in the fourth round. Near the end of the round, Whitman told the boys: "15 seconds to go." By way of answer Cardoza whipped out with that deadly left and Aguirre went down for a nine-count.

Two Knockouts
Featured by two knockouts and three other unusually brilliant performances, the card was the best presented at the arena since boxer's rebirth here.

Jesse (Tomahawk) Sanchez, Taibert terror, gained a bare edge over Everett Tye, 128, another Pomona pugilist in the semi-final. Outweighed about eight pounds, the subtle Tye fought off his heavier rival so well with a stinging jab that he took the fancy of the crowd who booed roundly the decision in favor of Sanchez.

Arroya Beaten
Art Arroya, Anaheim stylist, lost the best bout of the evening to Huntington Park's Al Garcia.

Garcia took a slim margin over the country boy with his harder punches but Arroya showed far better style.

Anaheim's Tino Munoz faded before the blundering attack of Rudy Guevara, going down for nine-on-the-knee counts in the second and third rounds and dropping the decision. Santa Ana's Eddie Orozco scored a one-round knockout over Anaheim's Merle Moss, flooring the valiant for a nine-count with a long right and then stacking him in the corner with a similar punch that started from way back.

Wins Second Fight
Lynn Pitcher of Huntington Park, making his second start in the ring, uncorked a couple of dynamite rights, putting Garden Grove's potent Tony Torres down for a nine-count in the first that was ended by the bell and following up at the start of the second with a barrage of punches that left Torres a heap in the corner.

Johnny Garcia punched out a sloppy win over Joe Parks and Merced Jimenez decided Frank Garcia.

Mrs. B. W. McClure, 49-5-41; Mrs. O. G. P. P. 49-5-41; Mrs. Jack Colburn, 50-9-41; and Mrs. Hugh Shields, 50-9-41, were the winners over holes 4, 5, 7, 10, 11, 12, 14, 16 and 18.

Mrs. L. H. Robinson's score of 19 was compiled on holes 5, 7, 14 and 18. Mrs. H. H. Harwood shot a 20.

Tex Oliver Goffs With Colorado Official Today

Walter B. Franklin, graduate manager of the University of Colorado who is vacationing in Santa Ana, and C. A. "Tex" Oliver of the high school's football champions here in '31 and '32, were to tee off in a golf match at the Santa Ana Country club this afternoon.

Mr. Franklin, who will be in Santa Ana until August 20, says he is very much interested in arranging a grid game between Colorado and Arizona, but the two universities probably will be unable to meet until 1937, since Colorado is tied up with two-year contracts with Oklahoma, Kansas and Montana.

RAISE FOR M'KECHNIE

BOSTON, Aug. 2. (P)—The name of Manager Bill McKechnie was heard most often today as those fans discussed a successor to Emil Fuchs as president of the Boston Braves.

McKechnie took his team on the road last night pleading complete ignorance of the possibility of his becoming nominal director in the front office as well as actual leader on the field. "I will do as I am ordered," McKechnie said as he started on the two week's road trip.

Jim Musick May Leave Shortly For Grid Post

If he continues his professional football career, and there is every indication he will, Jim Musick, plunging fullback of past Santa Ana and U.S.C. eleven, will leave the latter part of the month to join the Boston Redskins.

Musick, a deputy in the Orange county sheriff's office, is anxious to return to the gridiron for two reasons. One of them is his deep love for the game. The other is his desire to study law in preparation for his chosen life work as a federal investigator. In Boston he would have ample time for study, as the Redskins work out only two and three hours daily.

George Marshall, owner, hopes to have the highly-regarded Musick in suit when the Redskins begin their practice sessions at one of Boston's country clubs September 3. They open their season against Brooklyn September 29.

The Green Bay Packers are "hot" for Musick's services, but Marshall does not plan to release him from Boston, it is said.

Pennant chances of Huntington Beach's Class B Oilers were greatly enhanced by their home field last night with a 7-6 victory over Olive's first-division club in an Orange County Night Ball league upset.

Olive chose to save its most effective gunner, Lyle Morse, until the latter innings, and this decision on the part of the Class B Grenadiers proved costly.

Huntington Beach battered the slants of Brea, a relief chucker, for five runs in the first. Morse entered the fray in the third and held the Oilers in check the rest of the game. Catcher Holmes knocked a home run with one aboard to feature Olive's attack on Pitcher Urban Peltzer.

Brea's home game with Fullerton was postponed until tonight. Brea must defeat Fullerton to keep pace with Irvine's powerful hitters, who wrecked Garden Grove's weak unit, 21 to 5, at Irvine last night. Bill Jones, an Irvine local, hit a one-run pair of home runs while Placentia won at San Juan Capistrano, 11 to 4.

Chet Congdon, Capistrano manager, was back with the Missions after a vacation in Detroit.

Without Cornelius, the 20-30's might be smothered the same as they were last night when the Elks hammered out a 9-4 victory over them in the final game of the second-half schedule.

Union Oil surrendered fourth place in the standings by losing to the First National bank, 4-3. Sammy Francis of the 20-30's was driven to cover in the third after yielding seven hits and seven runs during one continuous rally by the Elks. Cornelius came to Francis' rescue in the next two frames.

Herb Bowe and "Porky" Bell blasted homers for the Elks. Neil Hall's circuit blow with Rightfielder Francis' error in the seventh worked off defeat for the First Nationals, who went into the final inning trailing Union Oil 3-2.

MAYBE IT'S CARBON COPY! Flag Chase Is Just Like 1934!

By ORLO ROBERTSON

Associated Press Sports Writer

Pennant races in successive years seldom resemble each other as closely as the Tiger-Yankee scrap for American league honors in 1934 and 1935.

Just a year ago Mickey Cochrane's rampaging Tigers had chalked up victory No. 2 on a 14-game winning streak that left the Yankees far behind. Today they were in the same position with their last two games recorded in the victory column.

Three-game Lead
On Aug. 3, 1934, both teams had dropped 37 games, the same number of setbacks they have received this season. The Tigers, having played more games, held a three and one-half game lead to day against only one game a year ago.

The Tigers widened the gap yesterday by turning back the late place St. Louis Browns, 6 to 3, while their rivals were idle.

Alvin Crowder, veteran right hander, held the Browns to four scattered hits and no runs until the ninth, when the heat got to him and he was nicked for four blows and three runs.

The third place Chicago White Sox missed an opportunity to tie the Yankees for second place by falling before the Cleveland Indians, 8 to 3.

Cubs Set Back
Competition in the National league saw the Pittsburgh Pirates aid the faltering New York Giants by trimming the threatening Chicago Cubs, 6 to 5. The defeat dropped the Cubs a full game back of the Giants, who were idle.

The Pirates scored all their runs off Lon Warneke in the second with an attack climaxed by Arky Vaughan's sixteenth homer with the bases loaded.

Dizzy Dean failed to go the route but he received credit for his seventeenth victory of the season as the Cardinals defeated the Reds, 7 to 5.

The names of Vic Baden, athletic director of the Concordia club of Orange, and Oscar Stutheit, service club worker of Orange, were suggested today as probable successors to President Bill Cole and Secretary Vic Walker of Santa Ana as officials of the County Night Ball league for next season.

Baden organized the Class B loop, and served as president until he resigned three years ago. He may be requested to return to the presidency when Cole and Walker tender their resignations at a banquet late this month.

WIFE MURDER DENIED BY OFFICER

HONOLULU, Aug. 2. (AP)—William Corum, 27, former Honolulu police officer, today protested from a jail cell his innocence of the death of his first wife a month ago, while at Waikiki his second bride of 10 days wept in a honeymoon cottage.

"I'm not the one, boys," he was quoted as telling officers who arrested him Tuesday; and today he reiterated his claims of innocence to newspapermen as he told them he was a nephew of Bill Corum, New York Post sports writer, and a family friend of Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

He was to be arraigned for plea on the murder charge late today.

Arrested Tuesday

Corum's arrest Tuesday climaxed a month of conflicting police theories in regard to the death of Mrs. Marjorie Corum, 27, superintendent of nurses at Queens hospital here. Corum called brother officers to his home July 3. They found Mrs. Corum shot to death and a pistol nearby.

Corum asserted he had found his wife dead when he arrived home, and after a brief investigation officers termed the death a suicide. Relatives of Mrs. Corum, the former Marjorie Jones Sherman of Santa Barbara, Calif., were so notified.

Resigns From Force

A week later Chief of Police W. A. Gabrielson announced a second investigation of the death, and during it Corum resigned from the police force. The following day, however, Gabrielson reported he had been unable to find any reason for suspecting foul play. "All signs point to suicide," he asserted.

A third investigation, this by the county prosecutor's office, was quietly conducted later and disclosed that Corum had married Catherine Lane of Honolulu July

Four squadrons of navy planes from the fleet carrier Saratoga found the huge hangar at Moffett Field, Sunnyvale, Calif., which just comfortably housed the ill-fated dirigible Macon, a gigantic cavern when they arrived for a week's stay for maneuvers. Talks to Parents

By BROOKE PETERS CHURCH
Social Distinctions

A woman passing judgment on a new acquaintance summed up her attitude with the statement, "She is not a gentlewoman and I don't care to know her. She speaks 23, after obtaining a license at suburban Pearl City. In the meantime, Dr. Robert Faus, city and county physician, had reported he was unable to find powder burns on Mrs. Marjorie Corum's body. The body was cremated shortly after her death, preventing further autopsy.

rudely and even insultingly to subordinates. I heard her scold a maid the other day, and it showed her up."

Courtesy to employees is a lesson which should be taught from the cradle up, for it is not so much a conscious attitude as a matter of habit. There are many who are kind and polite to subordinates, but with so much condescension and self-conscious virtue in their manner that it is galling to anyone who works for them.

Lines of social demarcation should not be drawn on grounds of work, money or birth in training children, and under no circumstances should a child be permitted to speak to or of anyone he comes in contact with in a derogatory manner. He should be taught the dignity of work well done, and should be thankful to those who work for him.

Tommy, when he orders the maid to bring him his shoes or tie, or his bib, or give him his dinner, should be refused service until he asks her for it in a gracious way. He is fortunate to be waited on, and should be grateful and considerate of the person who does it. "But she is only a maid!"

"Only Employee"

"Your father is only an employee at the bank. What would you say if you heard the president of the bank speak to him like that?"

Such an answer would make Tommy think. Congeniality is the only basis on which social selection can be based, and if children are early taught this lesson until it becomes second nature to them, future generations may one day see an end of class conflict.

In their first meeting, Frankie lost what he calls a "disputed" decision to Tony. The second time out, a badly cut eye cost the San Francisco fighter the bout. The third fight, staged before the Shriners at Washington, D. C., last June, was decided by Referee Jack Dempsey in favor of Canzoneri, although boxing writers agreed, generally, that Klick should have had the decision.

BROTHER HELPS SEEK PILOT

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2. (AP)—Donald Skaer, Denver, Colo., business man, was here today to aid in a widespread search for his brother, Lieut. Arthur H. Skaer jr., army reserve pilot, who disappeared late Tuesday after taking a new speed plane for a test flight.

The brother and Mrs. Skaer, bride of the missing flier, refused to abandon hope of finding him alive, although a thorough hunt of sections as far north as Santa Barbara and the Mexican border to the South failed to reveal a trace of his fate.

Officials of the Northrop Corporation, builders of the plane, offered $500 reward for the discovery of the missing flier and plane.

A grocer at Balboa, H. M. Harrison, reported he saw a ship resembling the Northrop plane vanishing seaward toward the island.

Feeling Well Today?

By DR. LAGO GALTSTON
Food and the Man: II

In the last article we described the "creation" of a superior type of laboratory experimental animal (albino rat) by the simple means of feeding the animal a superior diet.

Now the question can properly be asked: Is there any warrant for drawing from this animal experiment deductions which are valid for man?

Have Answer

Anthropologists appear to answer this question in the affirmative. Thus, they report for Chinese living in Hawaii under improved nutritive conditions grow taller than people of the same racial strain in China, and that they continue to grow over a longer period than do those remaining in the less hospitable homeland.

The children of Japanese born in California show a definite superiority in height, weight and other characteristics over their immigrant parents.

Children Larger

In general, children born in this country of European parents are of larger stature and better physique than their forebears.

Nor is this improvement limited to the American-born children of foreign-born parents.

A study of 4000 women students who have attended Stanford university during the last 30 years reveals that, although the average age of women coming to the university today is less than formerly, the average height has increased by a little more than one inch.

Average Height

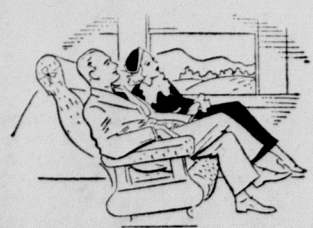

Dr. F. G. Parsons, anatomist at the University of London, states that the average height of the modern English working classes may be taken as 5 feet, 5 inches, while the average height among English medical students, presumably coming from the better off and consequently better nourished groups, is 5 feet, 9 inches.

The conclusion may be drawn that in man, as in the lower animals, improvement in a diet previously regarded as adequate will often result in better health and in the young, better growth and development.

NEW MOTOR CHIEF HALTS 'PLEASURE USE' OF STATE AUTOMOBILES

CARS LOCKED UP AS HEAD CALLS HALT

Ingels 'Cashes In' On Information Obtained While in Senate

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 2. (AP)—Several years ago as a senator R. Ray Ingels worked on a legislative fact-finding committee and one of its recommendations was that the state put a stop to the flagrant misuse of its automobiles by pleasure-bound employees.

Cars Impounded

The result was that a score or more of state automobiles which have been used freely, taken home at night or driven on pleasure trips by some employees of the department, including stenographers and clerks, were impounded in a state garage at Ingels' orders.

"I've still got my old senate fact-finding committee ideas on the use of state automobiles," he said. "They're for office business and nothing else."

The new director, succeeding Theodore Roche, San Francisco lawyer, ordered that the machines were to be released only with his approval and he told the departmental employees that if they needed machines to come to him and first explain their reasons.

Plans to Halt Use

Ingels said he had heard before entering office that automobiles were being used for "pleasure purposes" and that he intended to put a stop to it.

The gray-haired Ukiah rancher said the order applied to those employees who ordinarily had no use for an automobile in fulfilling their duties. It does not apply to highway patrolmen or other inspectors, nor will the automobiles of E. Raymond Cato, chief of the highway patrol, or Russell Bevans, registrar of motor vehicles, be taken away from them.

COUNTY UNION PLANS PICNIC

The Orange County Central Labor union today was pushing its plans for a picnic to be held in Irvine park on Labor day. The affair, at which games and athletic events will be featured, will be for both organized and unorganized labor.

The picnic will be an all-day affair, with a basket lunch at noon, music and a short program in the afternoon. Outstanding speakers have been secured. There will be a basketball game in the afternoon, and prizes will be awarded to winners of the earlier events.

An invitation has been extended to organized labor in Riverside and San Bernardino counties and Long Beach to join with Orange county labor in observance of the day.

What Is This Thing Caught At Laguna? It's Your Guess

Don't take our word for it, but . . .

An animal (or something) was captured at Laguna Beach late last night that has, count 'em:

The head of a fox!

The eyes of a lemur! (Small animal related to monkeys.)

The tail of a raccoon!

The feet of a cat!

A bark like a dog!

And that isn't all! It sometimes sneezes a good old spring cold sneeze!

If you think you know what it is you'll oblige the California Serpentarium at Laguna Beach by telling them, because officials of the institution, which is maintained by Pomona college, are frankly baffled.

They don't know its origin and don't know where another such freak can be found.

They aren't even sure where they got it! According to the story a friend of the institution's manager, Pierce Artran caught it about 10:30 o'clock last night.

It weighs only 15 pounds, but is "15 pounds of dynamite," say those who have seen it.

The "thing" will be on exhibit at the serpentarium for some time, officials say.

FARM BUREAU QUIZZES ON DUCK POND

With the Orange county water district slated to put its oar into the duck pond water problem, the Orange county farm bureau is anxious to know what the district's position on this question will be. Use of water by duck ponds has been a subject of discussion for years, in connection with water conservation.

The water district so far has not dipped into the duck pond controversy very deeply, but on Tuesday two members of its board of directors said publicly that the board will consider the subject at its next meeting.

Yesterday the farm bureau board of directors authorized Roland D. Flaherty, farm bureau secretary, to write the water district and ask what its position will be on the question of taking an active part in handling the duck pond question.

William Wallop of Anaheim and W. C. Mauerhan, Katella, water district directors, said on Tuesday that they will oppose as individuals any settlement of the problem which will permit anything except domestic or agricultural use for water. They said the matter will be taken up at the next board meeting and action probably will be taken to prevent any compromise.

A settlement of the question, involving allocation of a certain amount of water to the ponds, is understood to be a possibility.

POST PREPARES FOR NEW HOP

SEATTLE, Aug. 2. (AP)—Wiley Post, explorer of the skies, was getting his new red monoplane in readiness today to leave unbroken land behind him and fly north over island-dotted Alaskan waters with his wife on "a pleasure jaunt" to Moscow.

Mechanics were equipping the plane with pontoons which Post indicated probably would be safer in journeying over water. The time of his takeoff for Juneau, Alaska, the next stopping point, was unannounced.

Post seemingly was in no rush to start. He explained he was on a pleasure jaunt with Mrs. Post—an 8000-mile journey which began at Los Angeles Wednesday and continued to Seattle from San Francisco yesterday.

NOTE CLEARS OFFICERS IN FLAG ROW

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2. (AP)—The diplomatic exchange of notes with the German government over the ripping of the Nazi flag from the liner Bremen at New York was complete today with a state department reply that the incident "was in no sense due to neglect on the part of American authorities."

No apology had been demanded, and none was forthcoming in the answer given yesterday to Charge D'Affaires Rudolph Leitenr by Acting Secretary William Phillips.

Was 'Unfortunate'

The note did say, however, that "it is unfortunate that, in spite of the sincere efforts of the police to prevent any disorder whatever, the German national emblem should, during the disturbance which took place, not have received that respect to which it is entitled."

The German government had instructed Herr Leitenr to "make the most emphatic protest against this serious insult to the German national emblem," and expressed the expectation that everything would be done by the American authorities to punish the guilty.

Hold Suspects

Phillips' reply said the persons implicated in the disorder aboard the ship last Friday "have been apprehended and are being held for trial."

The note contained a police report of the occurrence, and said the police authorities at New York had taken "most extensive precautions in order to prevent any untoward incident."

24-HOUR SERVICE ON TOMATOES

For the balance of the season tomato paste canneries will receive fruit 24 hours a day, thus enabling farmers to avoid piling their fruit on platforms, where it would deteriorate before being accepted.

This 24-hour system resulted from a recent conference at Los Angeles between cannery officials, growers and Milton K. Duffy of the state health department. Clarence Brown, head of the local farm bureau vegetable department, attended the session.

To work the program out, state inspectors will be on hand 24 hours a day at the canneries to pass upon the fruit as it is brought in. The farmer thus will be credited with the grade of his tomatoes as they are at the time of arrival. Otherwise they might stand for hours before being accepted and would deteriorate before grading, it was pointed out by Roland D. Flaherty, farm bureau secretary.

In previous years there was no grading, this procedure having just been put into effect by the health department.

MAN SHOTS SELF AND PAL OVER WOMAN'S LOVE

PLACERVILLE, Aug. 2. (AP)—Jealousy over a woman's affections threatened the 15-year friendship of Fred Jewell, 55-year-old superintendent of the Gold Reserve mine near here, and Charles E. Williams, 40, Grass Valley mine worker.

So, Deputy Sheriff W. A. Christian said, Williams shot and killed Jewell as he sat at his desk yesterday, and a few minutes later ended his own life with a bullet through the heart.

Pinned to the steering wheel of the automobile in which Williams' body was found was a note addressed to his former wife, Bertha, 30. It read in part: "I hate to separate good friends, so both of us go down the line together."

STATE SALES TAX LAW IS EXPLAINED

Clearing up many misunderstandings as to what is taxable and what is not taxable as foodstuffs under the new California sales tax law, the state board of equalization today released Ruling No. 25.1 as of July 1, last, specifying taxable and tax exempt articles.

The ruling follows:
Gross receipts from sales for human consumption of food products, as herein defined, are not taxable.

Food products include cereal and cereal products, milk and milk products, oleomargarine, meat and meat products, fish and fish products, eggs and egg products, vegetables and vegetable products, fruit and fruit products, spices and salt, coffee and coffee substitutes, tea, sugar and sugar products other than candy and confectionery, cocoa and cocoa products other than candy and confectionery, baby foods, sugar of milk, bakery products, baking powder, baking soda, cod liver oil, coconut, crackers, flavoring extracts, flour, fruit juices in pure and undiluted state, gelatine, health foods, ice cream, jelly powders, malted milk and other dried milk products, mustard, nuts, peanut butter, sauces, soups, syrups and yeast.

What It Includes
Food products do not include and the tax, accordingly, applies to receipts from retail sales of candies, including chocolate coated nuts, chewing gum, lozenges, cigarettes, cigars and tobacco, coloring extracts, dog, cat, bird and other animal foods, paper napkins, cups and dishes, root beer and root beer extracts, soaps and soap powders, cleansers, polishes, ammonia, concentrated lye and like products, water, including mineral and carbonated water, soda water, ginger ale, beer, wine, spirits, liquors and other beverages.

Gross receipts from sales of meals by restaurants, hotels and boarding houses are taxable. The tax also applies to gross receipts from sales by soda fountains and drug stores of ice cream, sodas, milk shakes, malted milk and other drinks for consumption on the premises where sold. The "premises where sold" include the grounds or location at which the meals, drinks, etc., are served, as, for example, hotel rooms in which the meals and drinks are served, a lot or streets adjacent to soft drink fountains, hot dog stands or other places of business at which meals, drinks, or other foodstuffs are served. Gross receipts from sales of all items sold at places of business where meals, drinks, etc., are sold for consumption on the premises are taxable unless sold in a form designed for consumption off the premises where sold, as, for example, box lunches and ice cream in cartons.

How Retailers Report
Accurate and complete records of all purchases and sales of tangible personal property must be kept to verify all exemptions claimed pursuant to this regulation. In making quarterly sales tax returns, gross receipts from sales of food products, that proportion of their total gross receipts from the sale of tangible personal property, before any deductions have been taken therefrom, that the amount of the amount of food products bears to the amount of the total purchases of tangible personal property. Retailers selling clothing, furniture, hardware, farm implements and other items not regularly sold in grocery stores, as well as food products, cannot make returns on this basis but must definitely segregate their taxable from their non-taxable gross receipts. If, however, the grocery business of such retailers is operated as a separate department, for which separate records and accounts are kept, such retailers may, in making quarterly sales tax returns, report as exempt gross receipts from sales of food products, that proportion of the total gross receipts of the grocery department, before any deduction has been taken therefrom, that the food products bear to the amount of the total purchases of tangible personal property for the grocery department.

The computation of the amount of exempt gross receipts according to sales of food products according to the ratio that purchases of food products bears to total purchases of tangible personal property is authorized only for the purpose of making returns. Additional assessments may be imposed or refunds granted if the board upon audit of the retailer's accounts and records determines that the return did not accurately disclose the amount of tax due.

SENATORS INVESTIGATE NUDISM

A mild sensation was created in a Senate committee when a book on nudism—illustrated and with a foreword by Lawrence M. Coast and Geodetic Survey Keeps Busy Mapping Coast Here

By McDONALD WHITE

Recently two flags were raised above a temporary government coast and geodetic survey station on the bluffs above Crystal Cove, a camping and housekeeping settlement a few miles north of Laguna. Beneath the good old American emblem flies the small blue flag with a white circle enclosing a red triangle, the official insignia. An aerial. And that completes the picture from the Coast highway.

Inside this miniature structure R. K. Brown, radio operator, and C. Rife, are busy. It's lunch time. Coffee is brewing, potatoes frying, squash boiling, on the fuel stove, carefully tended by Rife. Brown hears the familiar signal coming over his radio receiver. Lunch must wait.

Code signals crackle through the amplifier, then a significant long buzz. Brown clicks his stop watch. Ten, 20, 30, 40, 41 seconds—boom! A long, lingering rumble snorts through the loud speaker. Took that sound 41 seconds to reach the hydrophone submerged in a quarter-mile offshore, and to register instantaneously on the radio acoustic ranging apparatus in the station. (Sound travels through water about 1480 meters per second, and a meter is 39.37 inches). So if it takes the sound 41 seconds to reach the hydrophone, how far out at sea did that sound originate?

Has To Get Okay

Brown makes a few notations in his notebook and, while three cups of coffee are filled, makes numerous explanations to clear up these mysterious doings. He said he could talk now. He had radioed to headquarters for permission and received their okay. Seems Washington is particularly how much information is released to the public, due to certain mechanical secrets involved. So no secrets here. The S. S. Pioneer, using a fathometer, is making a government survey of the ocean bottom, measuring the depths in fathoms, and making detailed charts for the safety of commercial shipping. The ship works in conjunction with three land stations similarly equipped. These are located at Point Loma, San Diego, the second at Carlsbad (four miles south) and the third at Crystal Cove.

TNT depth bombs, attached to fuses, are dropped overboard from the Pioneer, which is always traveling at full speed while making these tests. At the moment of explosion the ship's radio broadcasts a long dash on a wavelength that is picked up by the three land stations. The operators signal back to the ship the instant the hydrophone picks up the impact of the distant bomb. Then they record the time elapsing between the dash (signal of explosion) and the rumbling set up in the loud speaker through a series of amplifying tubes connected with the sensitive apparatus in the hydrophone. These reef, every questionable depth, has been mapped—all for the safety of marine navigation. Navigation officers also exchange "gossip" of the sea, changes in channels, currents, winds, depths, any phenomenon of nature caused by earthquakes or natural causes.

Abrupt Drop
At this juncture Brown refills the coffee cups and the talk turns to waves, rip tides and comparative depths. The reason given for only one wave breaking at a time on the Laguna shores is due to the sudden drop off of the ocean bottom. As waves are caused naturally by a force set in motion by wind at sea, the impulse upon reaching shore has a tendency to turn over, thus forming a wave which in turn assists in the ceaseless process by creating a backwash or undercurrent. Where the slope of the shore is gradual the wave impulse tends to turn over farther out, and waves break in series rather than one at a time. Laguna's shore line drops off abruptly; hence, under ordinary circumstances only one wave breaks at a time. This is a distinct contrast to the coast line south of Dana Point, where a depth of 100 fathoms is only reached at a distance of three to six miles out. From Newport to Dana Point the 100 fathom depth is found from only one to two miles out. The deepest spot in this vicinity is about 30 miles off Laguna. Here depths down to 500 fathoms (3000 feet) have been measured, which is a lot of hole and water anywhere.

About Those Rip Tides
The much-publicized and feared rip tides are caused by the building up of the sandy ocean bottom by large waves or high tides. That creates a false bottom and the water level is raised over this area. Seeking its level, the water washes off and around these high sections and thereby throws into motion powerful currents that sweep out to sea. But they don't go very far out, which is well to remember.
The coast and geodetic survey will probably be operating in this district for several months, at least until the maps have been brought up to date. Many lives and countless dollars will be saved as a result in years to come. The element of chance in navigation is now a thing of the past. Absolute, scientific reckoning is the answer. . . . And there goes that signal again. Brown hops to his radio.
"Those chaps out there work on shifts," he growled, biting off a chunk of salami. "Here we have to eat and work at the same time. But it's interesting work," he concluded, sniffing the fresh ocean breeze that blew over the remainder of his salami.

Reports are made which, by a system of triangulation, gives the exact position of the ship at the spot where the depth was taken with the fathometer. Picture three imaginary lines drawn from the three land stations and converging at a point which is the Pioneer. That gives an impression of how this method of triangulation works. How these computations are made is another story.
Each of the three land stations receive the firing signal simultaneously, but their hydrophones pick up the traveling vibrations in varying spaces of time—several seconds apart in some case, depending upon the position of the ship. Later these records will prove of great value in checking and verifying the findings made by the technically trained officers aboard the Pioneer.
It is known that sound travels approximately 1480 meters per second, in water, spreading out in all directions, like ripples set up by dropping a pebble into a still pool. It also reflects from the bottom to the surface, lags and echoes, depending upon submerged obstructions. Exhaustive experiments in this line were conducted by officers and men of the coast and geodetic survey off the coast of Santa Cruz recently. Hydrophones—sensitive, hollow metal balls, with instruments enclosed—were submerged to depths up to one mile, and bombs were fired at all depths and distances so that sufficient material has been collected for three years' research.
Old Tragedy Recalled
About the middle of last century a ship by the name of Bishop struck a submerged rock some 40 miles west of San Clemente island. The rock at low tide is only two and a half fathoms (15 feet) below the surface. Many similar hazards have been spotted and charted by government surveys. Such a mishap would be mere negligence today.
Those black and white signals along the bluffs and rocky promontories splashed with white lime have a definite purpose, too. These are used for charting the waters within sight of the shore. The survey ship travels in a straight line along the coast between certain points, making depth observations at varying distances from shore. The signals are an aid in quickly determining the exact position of each depth finding. By a system of visual triangulation—sighting from one signal to another and computing the angles, cross angles, etc.—the work moves along faster and is more accurate than other methods of reckoning.
Close in to shore a fathometer is generally used to determine depth at a specific point, but a lead line is often used for verification. Depth is computed with a fathometer by measuring the lapse of time following a repercussion from the bottom of the ship. The sound strikes the ocean bottom and echoes back. These computations are based on miles low-tide.
Currents Studied
Further experiments are conducted in conjunction with the Scripps Institute at La Jolla for the advancement of oceanography and hydrography. Studies are made of currents, temperatures of water at all depths, taken by specially designed instruments, and samples of the ocean bottom in different localities are procured. Thus many of the hidden mysteries of the earth are constantly being brought to light.
Just a hundred years ago—when Dana recorded sailing up and down the coast in search of hides, throwing them over the precipitous cliffs at Dana Point, where sailors on the beach retrieved them and towed them out to the ship anchored off shore—what a strikingly different situation existed! Captains reckoned mainly by wits and judgment on unfamiliar shores, and to avoid hitting reefs anchored miles offshore. Charts, if any, were vague, unreliable. And disasters frequent. Nowdays, due mainly to the ceaseless vigilance of the coast and geodetic survey, chance has been reduced to a small measure. Every square mile of hazardous coast line has been charted; every

TASTY SALADS FOR SUMMER

Fresh and tempting salads play an important role on summer menus. They are easy to prepare, they are not expensive, and they complete a meal when served with meat and potatoes, so that no other vegetable is needed.

Stuffed Tomato Salad
Peel, tomatoes, remove a slice from the top of each and scoop out the center. Fill with equal parts of shredded lettuce and chopped peanuts with mayonnaise dressing to moisten. Arrange on lettuce leaves and garnish the whole with peanuts and stiff mayonnaise dressing.

Tulip Tomatoes with Cucumbers
Select round, regular size small tomatoes; scald, chill and peel them and cut down in sections from the top. Scoop out the seeds and force the petals-like sections outward in flower fashion. Marinate in cold French dressing for an hour, then drain and fill with cucumber cut in tiny dice and mixed with French dressing in which a bit of garlic has been soaked and then removed. Top

READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

SYNOPSIS: Laurie Moore's employer, Mark Albery, the airplane manufacturer, is much interested in her. Laurie goes to Liverpool to see her showgirl sister Gladys, and on the way back is irked by the offhand comment of a strange young man in the train who saved her from falling out of the train. Now the young man is telling Albery that he and Rex Moore, Laurie's husband who had crashed and apparently been lost trying to fly the Pacific.

Chapter Five

"MY—WHAT?"

"Where did you crash?" demanded Albery of the returned Rex Moore. "Who found you?"

"Crashed in a typhoon somewhere near the Marquesas Islands. I did the first hop to Fiji in fine time. And the next one, too. Then I struck a bad patch, the worst one I ever knew. It was no good. I was helpless. I wasn't forced down—I was hurled down.

"Don't remember much about it. Don't know why I wasn't smashed to pieces. Must have been unconscious for days. I had been picked up by a yacht and was taken to California. They told me the storm died down as quickly as it had come up. The people who owned the yacht looked after me for more than a week."

thought of you, Mr. Albery. I thought you might give me another chance. I'm all right now. I can trust myself. I want to carry on, if you don't think I'm too much of a crock and too old for the job."

"I'm so glad to see you I don't know what to say," was Albery's warm reply.

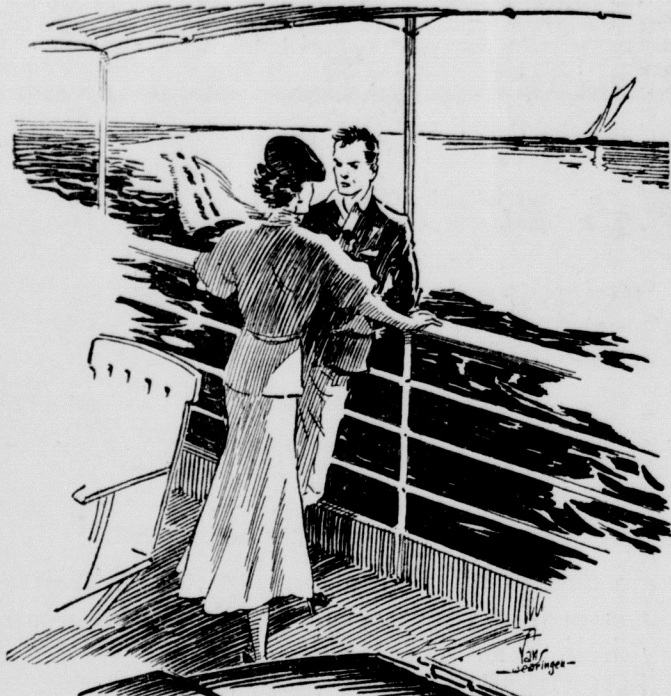

And then, abruptly, he fell into silence.

He remembered how, only a few days ago, he had said to young Mrs. Moore in his office, "I sometimes wonder if you still hope against hope that he might come back?"

And here he was, standing before him, Rex Moore, her husband, back from the dead. In the amazement and shock of the scene he had not thought of the girl before. That made it more incomprehensible than ever. The young man must evidently have gone off his head for a while. And no wonder.

"Moore," he said, "haven't you let anybody know that you're back in England—alive?"

"No, I hate fuss. Somebody might have remembered me. I'd have had to tell this silly yarn a thousand times. I've been in Lon-

"The people who owned the yacht looked after me."

"But why didn't you send word home?"

"Didn't feel like it. They were decent folk and kept it dark. I was a useless log. What was the good? Better that you should think me dead."

"You always were a queer chap. But after you recovered your sight?"

"I was down and out—a bit mad, I think. I owed my life, my eyes, to those people. But I gave them the slip and made my way to New York somehow or other and picked up a bit of a living there."

"Did you fly under another name?"

"No, I didn't fly at all. I thought I was through with that. I—I just picked up a living."

"Why have you come back now?"

"Because I had to. I got a change of heart. I gave a bitter little laugh. 'I told myself I'd been a fool, doing nothing but just cursing because I'd had bad luck. I

SCHOOL BONDS
CONSIDERED

A possible bond election to be held for the purpose of raising funds for completion of Santa Ana high school's building program will be discussed at the next meeting of the board of education August 6. George Wells, president of the board, today said the matter has been discussed informally for some time, and that board members feel the best way to obtain federal funds for completing the project would be first to raise part of the required amount through a bond election.

How much will be asked for, if the board does finally decide to call an election on the question, is not known now. Mr. Wells said, H. C. Nelson, principal of the Julia Lathrop Junior High school, stressed the necessity of an auditorium at the school, and said he hoped some provision for its erection would be included in the bond election if it takes place.

The need for an auditorium at the junior high school is recognized by members of the board, and they have been attempting for some time to work out some scheme for financing its construction. Recently Mr. Nelson visited Santa Monica on an inspection tour of school auditoriums with the idea in mind of being able to present some definite plan to the board.

PAY RAISING BILL AIMED AT JEWS

CORK, Ireland. (AP)—A bill introduced by the de Valera government regulating rates of pay for practically every trade in the country is claimed here to be aimed directly at Jews who have emigrated to southern Ireland from Germany in recent years.

Taking advantage of the Free State's high protective tariffs, some of them as high as 500 per cent, hundreds of the newcomers have opened small factories and are popularly believed to be earning large profits.

Proof that many of their employees, however, are making as little as 3 cents an hour has made the government determined to enforce equitable wages.

BUSINESS GOOD AT POSTOFFICE

With the exception of April, the Santa Ana postoffice did more business last month than any other month this year.

According to Assistant Postmaster Flake Smith, receipts for July totaled $12,533.71. Receipts for the same month last year totaled $10,769.55, and the total for July in 1933 was $11,896.84. Even with the increase in receipts indicated by these figures, July of this year is still behind August of last

"August of last year," said Mr. Smith, "was an election month, and a large amount of the money received was for stamps to send out sample ballots. There will also be an election in August of this year, but mailing of the sample ballots took place in July."

$55 PER HEAD IS OFFERED FOR MAN EATING TIGERS

CALCUTTA. (AP)—His majesty's government of the central provinces of India has offered $55 a head for dead man-eating tigers in a district where they menace natives.

But his majesty's government of the central provinces is cautious. It offers only $5.50 on the production of each body.

For the balance the hunter must wait another six months. If there are no more human victims in the area the government sahibs will be satisfied that the tiger produced was a man-eater. Otherwise the hunter is out of luck.

PEAKS SHOW ART OF ANCIENT ERAS

ALGIERS. (AP)—Carvings and paintings on rock representing three civilizations were discovered recently in the Hoggar mountains in the Sahara desert by French Alpinists.

These primitive works of art are similar to those found by Professors Gautier and Reygasse in another part of the region and are considered by archeologists as strengthening the theory that the Touareg tribes are descendants of the Garantes, a people mentioned by the Greek historian, Herodotus.

Tobacco Smoke Headache Cause, Chemists Find

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2. (AP)—Headache experienced in tobacco-laden rooms are due to more than imagination, experiments by the bureau of mines show.

During a test, bureau chemists confined three persons in a non-ventilated chamber and made them smoke a total of 60 cigarettes, 12 cigars, 27.1 grams of pipe tobacco and 12 stogies.

Samples of the chamber's atmosphere taken at intervals revealed presence of both carbon monoxide and carbon dioxide. The smoke caused discomfort after 15

IT'S NOT LEGAL IF HE FALLS WRONG

LOS ANGELES (AP)—perplexing legal question almost held up the painting of the 56 electric light standards atop the Los Angeles coliseum under a state emergency relief administration project.

The SERA carried insurance only for falls up to 40 feet—and there were two ways to fall, one only 25 feet to the top tier of seats and the other 125 feet to the ground outside. William A. Venable, veteran steeplejack on the job, solved the problem when he "agreed" he would fall on the 25-foot side should he lose his balance.

Lecturer Thinks Firemen Too Fat; Has Work Plan

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2. (AP)—Alice Grey, a lecturer, has definite ideas about firemen.

The fireboys, she wrote Mayor Frank L. Shaw, should be put to work cleaning streets or parks when not fighting fires.

"Firemen seem to sit around all the time and are too fat," Miss Grey decided.

The mayor forwarded her letter to the fire commission. It forwarded it to Chief Ralph Scott. Chief Scott may still have it.

The largest egrets are found in Florida and Cuba.

PIONEER TALES

By the Old Timer

The tenth of a series of narratives having to do with the early life of Santa Ana and Orange county.

Last week we told you we would next show how this section had developed in the short space of one year. Apparently this year of 1881 marked the first important period of this character. For instance:

ORANGES

"The growth of orange shipments from Santa Ana is fully illustrated by the statement that during the year 1880 but 1,545 boxes were shipped from here, while from January 1 to April 14 of this year 4,212 boxes were sent from the Santa Ana depot to San Francisco and other points, and the crop is probably not half marketed. When one sees the immense number of young trees just coming into bearing in this section he can faintly realize that this business is as yet in its infancy. The only drawback that may temporarily be experienced is the high freight tariff."

CORN, HOGS, SHEEP, ETC. From January 1 to April 14 of the same year (1881) we notice the following shipments from Santa Ana:

Corn—9,002 sacks, 1,179,906 lbs.
Sheep—75 cars, 1,500,000 lbs.
Hogs—74 cars, 1,480,000 lbs.
Wool—886 bales, 304,222 lbs.
Eggs—617 cases, 24,510 dozen.

We also notice that 924 boxes of raisins were shipped during the same period, and that Father Spurgeon was planting a 40-acre vineyard about two miles from town. The planting of vineyards continued to such an extent that grape growing eventually became one of the leading, if not actually the first industry of the valley.

THINGS ARE MOVING "Mr. Garmey is now preparing a kiln of 300,000 brick at his yards here, all of which will be necessary for buildings about to be erected here."

ANOTHER BALL GAME

Somebody in The Herald office was more of a ball fan than Mr. Ross, its former editor, and we are making a guess it was Ed Waite, who you remember appeared at the masquerade as a baseball character. Anyhow here is the blow by blow account of the game by the sporting editor:

"The game of baseball played at the picnic on the Santiago canyon (the present Irvine park) last Saturday, April 30, was hotly contested between the Swamp club and the second nine of Orange, resulting in favor of the latter. The umpire was C. E. Parker of Orange, who did his best and showed no partiality. Below we give the score in full:

"Orange second nine—Ed Whitney, 4 runs, 4 outs; J. W. Harris, 5 runs, 2 outs; M. A. Yarnell, 5 runs, 2 outs; G. E. Peters, 4 runs, 3 outs; W. F. Harris, 5 runs, 3 outs; A. M. Yarnell, 3 runs, 2 outs; O. A. Taylor, 1 run, 3 outs; S. M. Anderson, 2 runs, 2 outs; R. Lockhart, 1 run, 4 outs. Total, 30 runs, 27 outs.

Swamp nine—Ed Raine, 3 runs, 2 outs; J. McClerkin, 1 run, 3 outs; B. Williams, 2 runs, 4 outs; F. Moesser, 5 runs, 1 out; H. Medlin, 4 runs, 2 outs; H. Moesser, 2 runs, 4 outs; R. Waterman, 2 runs, 3 outs; J. Medlin, 1 run, 3 outs, 4 outs; T. Guess, 1 run, 3 outs. Total, 22 runs, 27 outs."

Recapitulating, we want to first speak of C. E. or "Ed" Parker, who umpired the game. Mr. Parker was the founder of the Orange County Title company, and continued as its president until his death a few years ago. He was a great hunter, a genuine sportsman in all respects, was the father of George and Bernard Parker, and was certainly one of the most popular and respected citizens of the entire valley. We again notice the Harris Brothers, J. Wiley and Frank, and we also notice M. A. Yarnell, former publisher of The Bulletin, who still resides here. Then if you notice there was a young fellow named G. E. Peters in the Orange team. "Pete" was the first official bill poster in Santa Ana, was county recorder as long as he wanted to be and was a banker for many years, until he retired. He still resides here, on First street, just west of Main.

In the "Swamp" nine we again observe the Moesser boys of whom we spoke in a previous article. Then there is Ed Raine, almost as well-known hereabouts as Ed Parker, and lastly H. Medlin, who must be my old friend "Hall" Medlin, who now resides on North Broadway in well-earned retirement, after assisting for many years in claiming the vitals out of Soledad mountain, near Mojave.

"Hall" didn't find the Silver Queen mine there, but he picked up enough gold to keep him in smoking tobacco the rest of his life. In addition to owning some nice income property here as well as his home.

The Herald, May 7, 1881: "The supervisors have granted the petition for the McFadden and Ritchey road, and declared the same a public highway."

This is the road now known as McFadden street, running east from Main street to Tustin.

BATTLE ROYAL "John E. Harris was arrested for threatening the life of A. M. Fudge."

"A. M. Fudge was arrested charged with exhibiting a deadly weapon and threatening C. H. Smith."

A BAD ACCIDENT

"A very distressing accident happened last Saturday afternoon. Mrs. H. B. Dibble, becoming impatient at the slow progress of the fire in her stove, sought to hasten it by applying coal oil. She poured some of it into the stove. The flame instantly communicated to the oil in the can, which exploded, and the burning fluid was thrown upon her. Both arms and hands were badly burned, as were her face and breast, but fortunately her eyes escaped. She is under the care of Dr. Lacy and her numerous friends will be glad to know she is getting along favorably."

RATHER CHOOSEY

"Dr. Bailey informs us that quite a number of persons visited Mr. Kuffie's during the illness of his family, and about 12 or 15 caught the chicken-pox, and are now sick with it, but not one caught the small-pox."

EARLY FISHING DAYS

"An enterprise has been inaugurated in this section which bids fair to pay well. Messrs. Lotspeich and Wicks have invested considerable money in putting up fish on the Santa Ana river, near the sea coast, about ten miles from Santa Ana. The first are said to be of the species called mullet. They are said to exist in enormous quantities, and are being taken with seines, and will be packed for shipment. The river is broad and deep where the fish are caught."

Until the harbor development was begun at Newport the Santa Ana river emptied into the bay, and mullet were plentiful in those early days and on up to the latter '90s. They were a beautiful, plump and very fat fish, sizing up to four or five pounds, and were wonderful for baking. They are now almost extinct in our local waters, although occasionally you may still see them jumping in the bay. A very disheartening feature of this fish is that it will not take any sort of bait.

DOWN WITH THE DUST

May 28, 1881: "We have now two sprinkling carts in operation on our streets, and undoubtedly this will give us a much needed remedy from the clouds of dust we have at times been subjected to. Our citizens have liberally subscribed to assist this enterprise. The water is obtained from Mr. Spurgeon's well. The carts belong to rival parties."

"Henry Kelly was acquitted of the charge of battery upon the person of Peter Eiseleback, in a jury trial, before Judge Freeman."

And now folks my annual vacation beckons. I hate to interrupt these tales which I hope are proving of some interest to you, but you know we old timers must have some time to recuperate and enjoy the wonderful resting spots in this Golden State of ours. When we get back I am sure I will be pepped up and better prepared to continue the stories of early days. Until then, may you all prosper and wish a pleasant outing for

THE OLD TIMER.

WET CLOTHES

By Mary Graham Bonner "Why Christopher Columbus Crow," quacked Mrs. Quacko, "you know I'm not just thinking up excuses to stay on here. I did believe we'd all be better off for a rest and a cooling visit to this pond, but I'm quite ready to leave now."

"In fact, I am absolutely ready to leave. As soon as Willy Nilly puts on his shoes and stockings and as soon as you dry your feathers, I'll be there, too, shaking myself out."

"My feathers will dry in no time at all on such a hot day. Yes, I am ready to leave as soon as you are both ready."

All this time Mrs. Quacko was floating about the pond, making no effort to leave, but talking as though she were almost waiting for them.

She had got down from Willy Nilly's shoulder some few minutes before, and now Willy Nilly was wading back to the edge of the pond. Suddenly they heard a splash and turned quickly to see Willy Nilly with arms and legs seeming to fly out in all directions in the shallow water near the bank.

He's Not Hurt

"Are you hurt?" cried Mrs. Quacko Duck.

"No," said Willy Nilly doubtfully.

"Are you certain you're not hurt?" asked Mrs. Quacko, hurrying over toward him.

"I am sure I'm not," said Willy Nilly.

AVOCADO CO-OPERATION

IT IS GRATIFYING to know the avocado growers have strengthened their agreement. The Journal told yesterday of a new cooperative plan among Pacific and Atlantic coast producers whereby California growers will handle more than 80 per cent of the Florida crop through their eastern agents. Regulation of shipments, elimination of overlapping sales territories and stabilization of prices have been guaranteed under a new marketing system, we are told.

Florida's approximate 3,000,000 pounds of avocados will be disposed of in eastern sales areas when California crops are out of season. Then, as the local product is ready for marketing, the eastern crop will be temporarily shifted to other purchasing districts.

The plan was tried before on a smaller scale, but the new agreement brings many of the Florida independents into the fold, thus insuring 80 per cent control of the Florida crop by California cooperatives.

It is just another step toward sound business. The avocado industry in Southern California is rated as a million-dollar institution, and it is high time that the growers enjoy a market at higher levels and one that can be more definitely relied upon as to stability.

BUSINESS GROWS ON FAITH

COOPERATIVE promotion and advertising is recommended by Paul Armstrong, general manager of the California Fruit Growers Exchange, as the best solution to today's business problems. He cites the efforts of the All-Year-Club of Southern California, which boosted tourist travel from 200,000 in 1921 to more than a million in 1935.

Another instance of advertising value is presented by Mr. Armstrong, wherein the sales for oranges increased from $10,000,000 in 1905-6 to $73,000,000 last year.

If there is any doubt as to the value of the orange industry to this state these figures should remove it. Probably no county profits more than ours. And nowhere is the appreciation of cooperative endeavor more fully realized.

If industry should associate itself many lines could make similar progress in establishing profitable businesses. The inter-relationships spirit cannot be avoided if success is attained. That is why great business institutions have departments known as public relations for the purpose of better understanding. Out of confidence trade relations are entrenched, and just to the extent that faith is established does business grow.

The honeymoon is over when the bride ceases to look like the young housewife in the vacuum cleaner advertisement.

FORTELLING EARTHQUAKES

CALIFORNIA should be able to provide a job for Reuben Greenspan—if his earthquake forecasting system proves to be the real thing.

In a most amazing way the New York navigator has predicted 15 earthquakes within the past two weeks. He does it with a secret method of charts and calculations—without employing costly instruments or laboratories.

Of course, Greenspan may be just a lucky guesser. His method may be a fake science—like the rain-making frauds which were perpetrated in rural districts years ago. But there is a possibility that his earthquake forecasting system may be as accurate as the methods by which astronomers foretell eclipses and tides.

If someone had been able to predict the time, place and intensity of the San Francisco, Santa Barbara, Long Beach and Santa Ana shocks—as well as the really catastrophic quakes in Japan, Italy, and India—think of the lives that could have been saved.

Chicago museum director predicts America may become a nomad nation living on wheels. Better than a mad nation living on relief.

HORRORS OF WAR

POP-EYED with fright, some people are predicting that disease germs will wipe out entire populations in the next war.

These are the same people who used to make blood-curdling predictions about the "death-ray." But nothing seems to have happened.

As a matter of fact we walk through billions of germs every day. We're used to it. We've built up a resistance to it. While we are in the ordinary state of health, our bodies repulse battalions of microbes.

A little thought ought to convince anyone that a few million more germs floating down from an airplane would have no more effect than scattering a bag of ashes.

War is frightful enough without trying to exaggerate its terrors.

Prof. Einstein has been working on a single law to cover all the mysteries of the universe, excluding, of course, the operations of the Nazis in Germany.

SCIENCE OF SUCCESS

THE WAY to be a success is to give more than just the average service.

Truth of this statement is demonstrated by careers of those men who are sitting on top of life's ladder. They didn't get there by giving just average service. They gave extra-special service. And they're enjoying the reward.

Trying to handle a job, big or small, without giving more than average service is just like inviting Ol' Man Failure to step in and manage your affairs. Sooner or later you'll be pushed aside for a better worker.

Give more—and you'll get more.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

The thoughts while strolling: Ed Wynn's startled look is becoming permanent. What's become of George Lederer? Joke: The count probably thinks Barbara was a wool worth it.

Worries of the rich: Billy Leeds has 164 servants in his various establishments. Look—alikes: Colette, the French novelist, and Nina Wilcox Putnam. They will go far to find a dealer pan than Joe Lewis's Horror thought: To become suddenly lost in the Paris catacombs. They are talking how Clara Briggs's daughter Clara is showing her father's pen and ink talent.

Rarely read an Elsie Robinson essay without feeling a little glow. Or dialogue by Dorothy Parker without a murmuring: "Wish I had written that!" A rock skipping name: Slickee Kakardish. Harper's Bazaar's new fiction editor, Beatrice Kaufman, is reminiscent of the paintings of Catherine the Great.

The aristocrats on the cruller shop stools these days. Add artistic male hands: Walter Hovey's, Rudy Vallee's and Milton Holden's. Rex Cole might be a second baseman in the Iowa league. And Sophie Tucker suggests a goose girl Gretchen gone Fifth Avenue Saks.

Frequent luncheon cronies: Bernard Gimbel and Gene Tunney. Few can touch off a Gainsborough hat like Mrs. Oliver Harriman. And no one can look so Southern colonelish in a white crash suit as George Reector. But it takes Grover Whalen to make a silk hat sit up and purrrp.

A meander through East Fifteenth street near the East River the other day revealed a sheepfold, nine sad-eyed white sheep baa-ing. There was not a soul in sight, but finally a pipe-smoking wanderer with a dog came along. I inquired to whom the sheep belonged. He removed his pipe and nodded toward an imposing building that was the Willard Parker hospital. Experimentation? Anyway it rippled a shudder.

Ben Ali Haggin is living for the summer on the estate he inherited from his mother in the Adirondacks. He took with him his old butler who was his Jeeves in the grand days when Ben Ali Beau Brummled through all the world capitals. And whose studios were the haunts of famous beauties. While his butler was packing for him, he suddenly exclaimed: "What sir? The same fine linen underwear of the good old days. How they have stood the ravages of time, sir."

The latest in dinner palaces is a restaurant gone classically literary. It is called The Dickens Room, with an heroic canvas of the author in the entrance and many other mementos of the era. The announcement cards declare all lovers of Dickens will thrill to "the atmosphere." And the slogan, quite obviously: "Let's go to The Dickens."

George Buckley was standing by when an excited fellow rushed into the gun room of a Madison avenue sporting goods store and asked to see something efficient in shotguns. He was first shown one of imported English made, valued at $1,500. He declined with thanks. An inland German gun was next shown at $1,200 and received a negative head-shake. A $900 Belgian make was brought forth. Finally said the stranger in annoyed blurt: "Say, I asked merely for an efficient gun." Then grimly: "After all it's going to be a very simple ceremony."

One of the most interesting displays of firearms was in Tom Mix's home in Beverly. The enormous living room was in de luxe cowboy decor with bossed saddles from Argentina and saddles from "down under" fretted with peary and jangling hand-carved silver stirrups. The walls were covered with fan-wise displays of guns, pistols and quirts. There was a bride of Billy the Kid's. Adding to the wild and woolly motif was an indirect lighting effect suggesting a purple horizon in the sage brush. Those who went for a few aside chuckles left with gasps of admiration. The guns and saddles were valued at $125,000. The decorator was paid $19,000.

Frank Tours sat next to a stew in a late suburban train. At the first stop a musician with a bass fiddle got on and sat opposite. The stew eyed him a moment and leered: "You know what? You can't do it!" The bull fiddler maintained a haughty silence. Again: "You can't do it!" Asked the musician: "Can't do what?" "Slip it under your chin," was the triumphant reply.

NEW MUMMIES FOUND

MELBOURNE, Australia. (AP)—Mummified remains, consisting of strange seated figures thought to be more than 1000 years old, have been discovered in the mountains of New Guinea. They are believed the first pieces of evidence indicating New Guinea tribes mummified in any way preserved their dead.

SLAVE-DRIVER

ONE OF the most sympathetic men in Washington, there is almost nothing he will not do for a friend. But he is a slave-driver in his office.

EVERYDAY MOVIES

By Denys Wortman

"I'll have clothes enough for three days, and after that we can change hotels."

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Administration lobbying in the halls of congress may have been under fire more vigorously than in previous years, but it is not new. It has been practiced by every administration, democratic or republican. Without it the legislative machine could scarcely move. It is particularly necessary in a form of government in which members of the cabinet do not serve as members of the legislative branch, as in Europe.

Therefore it has come to be a fact that the administration most successful in lobbying through its program on Capitol Hill is most successful in everything else. Hoover began the system of having a special White House secretary to act as lobbyist on the Hill. Roosevelt has continued it. His personal lobbyist is Charles West, a brain trust with a difference.

West began to imbibe brain trust intellectually at the age of 21 when he was appointed vice consul at Naples and attended the University of Naples on the side. After that he taught at Harvard, Denison University and Tufts, jumping into the rough-and-tumble of congress straight from the cloistered life of the campus. For two terms he made a brilliant record, his only mistake being to run for the senate against that sagacious, cigar-chewing former governor of Ohio, "Honest" Vic Donahey.

Last winter when Roosevelt began getting into hot water as a result of Old Guard sabotage and Marvin McIntyre bungling, he drafted West as his lobbying agent on Capitol Hill. There he did such a good job that he has been rewarded with the position of under-secretary of interior.

BEN COHEN SPOTLIGHT

MOST spotlighted congressional agent of the New Deal regime is Ben Cohen, whose presence at the conferees' meeting of the holding corporation bill caused three house members to walk out.

Cohen is one of the most active figures in the New Deal. Working with his close friend, Tom Corcoran, he has been behind more important legislation than any other member of the administration. He began with the securities act. This was drafted during four days and four nights while he was locked up in a room in the Carlton hotel shortly after Roosevelt was inaugurated. In order to ensure that he would not be tempted to interrupt his endeavors, Cohen sent his one suit to the cleaners with instructions not to bring it back before four days.

Co-author of the act was Jim Landis, now a member of the securities exchange commission. At the very end, the two authors disagreed. Landis packed his bag and walked out, leaving Cohen to finish the bill by himself. It now stands as the law of the United States, almost as it came from Cohen's pen.

Officially Cohen is in the legal division of PWA. Actually he is the most important legislative draftsman of the New Deal. He works his stenographers in two shifts; can't understand why they don't like to remain at the office until 2 a. m. as he does.

Slippery Secretary of Commerce Roper is his own lobbyist and a good one. Dan, once served as clerk of a senate committee, knows all the tricks of the game. At present he is doing some heavy axing for the Bland-Copeland ship subsidy bill, which the President considers a dubious piece of legislation and which senate progressives thought they had pigeonholed.

Madame Fanny Perkins also is her own chief lobbyist for the labor department. With the social security bill and the Wagner labor disputes act before Congress this session, Miss Perkins beat a well-worn path to the Hill. At times she was pulled out of tight holes by Isador Lubin, commissioner of labor statistics, and by able Assistant Secretary Ed McGrady, who as one-time legislative agent of the A. F. of L. knows the congressional ropes as few other lobbyists.

New Deal lobbying, as in previous administrations, consists of explaining legislation to the so-called legislators.

Fog As Seen in the Bay Region

SAN FRANCISCO.—Impenetrable fog billowing between sea and bay; mantling mist seeping in gusty sheets. No "cat-like feet" to this smothering, dripping blanket, wet as the vasty deep from whence it springs. This is not the sort of tempering high-fog which lingers, at times, over the channel waters of the South-eastern California coast, softening the Southland sun. This bay-region fog has a suffocating effect, reducing visibility to terms of yards and feet, almost of inches. It is not the "pea-soup" fog of London, nor the mucky fog of Pittsburgh. This fog is white, milky, clinging, not the kind to cut with a knife, but rather a stifling shroud to roll back if one could grasp it. Old-time sailors tell of fogs so dense they could drive spikes into them and hang caps and jackets thereon. This fog is too yielding, too pervasive, too permeable for such treatment, holding a spike about as well as water and closing up a hole in its substance as readily.

Viewed from a lighted room, in the deepening dusk this fog, in substance and temperature, recalls an eastern snowstorm. Familiar landmarks are blotted out. Space is obliterated. No sky appears above; no ground is seen below. Houses and trees, assume grotesque shapes and proportions. Distance loses meaning. Glimmering lights may be near or far, their positions allowed in no certainty. Head-lights are distorted and magnified by halos, adorned with filmy iridescence. They may be advancing or receding, or performing both movements together for all the observer can tell. Old habits remind me to make sure that the trusty snowshovel is at the door for an hour of brisk exercise in the morning.

Man may boast of his conquests of earth and sea and sky, but fog, with the "backness of darkness," still has him guessing. There is so little he can do about it. His eyes stare blankly into the gloom. Mighty electric eyes stab into it with dagger thrusts and recoil from the blinding murk. Fogs are still unfettered and untamed.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town

With C. F. SKIRVIN

The Orange county League of Municipalities recently held a session at Newport Beach. It was a dry meeting, a dry evening, a dry subject, and a dry speaker. There wasn't anything that savored of wasn't anything that savored of "happy days are here again." At the conclusion of the address of officials, policemen, and a few firemen assembled at the fire station, which is combination headquarters for those in authority. About this time two fellows, filled with the spirit of youth, came around the corner and seeing the policemen and firemen concluded there had been a raid, and remarked: "Gee, they got a bunch of drunks tonight." The incident taking place after the meeting adjourned, no report will be found in the official records. It was just another case of mistaken suspicion.

These new marble machines remind me of the story of the rich man and Lazarus. You got about the same chance to win that the rich man had to get Lazarus across the chasm with a bucket of water.

If Earl Morrow and O. A. Haley continue their indispositions much longer it will necessitate two additional to my observation force. It is asking entirely too much of a man to keep up with the fashion parade, to adjust the inevitable jealousies, and to remove the frowns which occasionally find their way to the place where smiles should radiate. Earl and O. A. You know me. I need thee every hour.

The Breakfast club meets 7:30 Thursday mornings and adjourns an hour later. Barney Koster is coming to take me to the meeting. It is now 3 o'clock Friday afternoon and I am still waiting for him.

Up to the old coffee cup for the usual aroma, and overhear a grouchy grumbler about the job of the wages, hours, and associates. That fellow is too busy finding fault to ever get any place except the foot of the class. He will probably live long enough to see all those he complained about in positions of trust and influence, and he will be addressing an audience on some curb about the inequalities of government and business. Giddap, Napoleon, let's not wait for him.

Now I know why John Lamb goes to lunch early. He only wants to buy one. That fineness of mine isn't going over so good. Sitting close-up to John is ineffective. He won't weaken.

Ray Sheppard comes in with real money, and yet he has real estate men do not have any money. Well, this one did. And the realtors who converse with me about conditions and prospects are optimistic and convinced they will soon have more of it. Business is better.

Some of the boys over at the Elks club want to know how come Earl Abbey to me now that two mistakes were made. Ray wasn't in, so a phone call would have obviated a preamble none too tempting in the first place. And then again, maybe he didn't want to see me.

A little coffee now and then is relished by the best of men, and more so if it's an invitation. So clamber up on stool with a dependable five cents on my right and a mischievous skirt on the left. When the conversation drifts to politics then it's my move. That's one subject I've never conquered, and been studying the question ever since Plato threw a dishpan out the kitchen window. Or did he?

A friend was showing me some old photographs of a certain business firm. He knew 'em all by their first name. But one of these days he will be out of the earthly picture and then someone will pick up the photographs and won't know a mother's son or daughter. So while memory is good and the stenographer handy why not identify the entire group, nature of the business, and where, so future generations will have some intelligent and valuable information, and maybe the Bowers Memorial museum another historical contribution.
